My Best Work

Addicted to screens

An illustration done for an article expressing the negative impact that society's obsession with technology has on a community. Also winning a Ventura County Star Award for editorial cartooning.

Initiative taken

Ren Rally 2014

This was a great example of initiative for me, being hired as an illustrator and choosing to experiment with video I some what dove head first into filming the Ren Rally for our school. This year's Ren Rally was especially hard to cover considering it was at another local high school. Whatever the difficulties I feel my co-worker and I executed the video to the best of our abilities.

Freshman commit to graduate

This was my first time taking photos for the Press and like I mentioned above, I am an illustrator so branching out to expand my abilities really set the stage for the rest of the year where i continued to take photos, video, and continue to draw.

Pulling yourself up by your bootstraps

This is an illustration for an opinion article about the unrealistic idea of social darwinism "pulling yourself up by your bootstraps". While more of a political cartoon it demonstrates the objective of the article and is my favorite art piece done all year.

Character Trait

Probably the most important character trait I feel I have is courage. As an illustrator for mainly opinion article I have my name attached to drawings demonstrating other people's opinions and that I feel takes courage because sometime I have my name attached to an opinion or subject that I may not personally agree with but it is my job and if I can display the article message to the worthiness of the written work then I have succeeded.
