

Gifts Under $25

It's our post-election blowout with pins, buttons and glassware to flaunt your patriotism. Whether it's a simple flag pin, a campaign button, or a durable glass, DEMS for USA has compiled the best collection of 2020 political memorabilia we have to offer, and all for under $25.

This campaign has certainly left an impression, with the country virtually split in half. Let your friends and coworkers know you appreciated that they were on the right side of history and memorialize your favorite moments from debates, press conferences, and fly-related incidents.

Flag Pin

There's a reason all politicians wear a flag pin on their lapel. It's a clear and neutral patriotic symbol that means you're proud to be a citizen of the greatest Democratic experiment of humankind. Purchase a few to ensure your friends and family aren't accused of some absurd treason charges from someone who never got the memo about the first amendment.

I Paid More Taxes Than Trump Pint Glass

If there's one thing that's particularly galling about alleged billionaires flaunting their wealth, it's their proud defiance of tax laws. "That makes me smart," he said years ago. Well, it actually turns out it makes you a criminal. This holiday season, be proud of the fact you're a taxpaying citizen.

Proud to Be A Democrat Glassware

There's something particularly satisfying about your party winning a major election, and this year, admit it, you were at least a little nervous. We're not ones to brag; a quiet little acknowledgment to friends and loved ones that you're all on the right team is more than enough. Actually, we take it back, go ahead and brag a little bit.

Biden Harris 2020 Pin

If you and your friends didn't have them before the election, there's nothing wrong with a little retroactive support. And given the way Congress worked out, President Biden will still need all the support he can get. These pins, in proud democrat blue, make it look like you were a campaign worker on the frontlines.

Biden Harris Take America Back Pin

Now that the election is over, it's time to begin building this great nation back better together. With that task in hand, on top of a raging pandemic, Biden and Harris are going to need a leg up from the citizenry. Just because the campaign is over doesn't mean the fight is; make sure your friends and family are well-prepared.

I'm With Kamala 2020

Whether you had to suffer through racist accusations of her birthplace, intentional mispronunciations of her first name, or the standard sexist stuff about how she was "nasty", Kamala Harris had to endure some ridiculous abuse to get where she is today. Now, as the first black female vice president, it's our duty to show our support. Help your friends and family support what has turned out to be a shining example of the American dream.
