ALOHA UBUD SWING

TEGALLALANG, BALI

Image by Darren Lawrence

Cost

IDR 995K per person

Activity

If you're up for an adrenaline rush as well a scenic view, stop by the famous Bali swing for pictures that will last you a lifetime.

Image by Nick Wehrli

Imagine swinging out above tropical forests, imagine the lush greenery of palm tree valleys overlooking clear rivers and imagine watching the Balinese sunset over sprawling rice paddy fields. You can experience these giant swings ranging from 10m to 60m above the ground at Aloha Ubud Swing, one of the most picturesque destinations in the Tegallalang area.

Opening Hours:
Mon – Sun: 8:00AM to 5:00PM

Note: Operation hours may vary due to COVID-19.

THOMAS BEACH

ULUWATU, BALI

Situated in Southern Bali, Uluwatu's cliffside views are an undisputed favourite among travelers and locals alike. Its beaches are even more of a gem – expect long stretches of white sand and blue waves lapping lazily against the shore. It takes a little bit of a walk to find this "hidden" beach, but it's worth it for the amazing photos you'll be able to take during sundown.

Commonly recognised by its iconic blue stairs, this waterfall hike may not be for the faint of heart. The walk down its steep steps can be quite challenging, but the view of the falls more than makes up for it. An all-encompassing view of the ocean, as well as its surrounding cliffs, is visible from the very top of the staircase. If you walk all the way down to the bottom, there are several shrines and sacred temples for local ceremonies.

 Cost
IDR 40000 per person

 Activity
Panoramic views of sprawling paddy fields for your next day trip. If you're looking to capture some breathtaking shots, visit this symbol of Balinese culture and heritage.

The rice fields in Jatiluwih may not be as famous as the ones in Tegalalang, but they're just as mesmerising (we promise!).

Listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site since 2012, the Jatiluwih Rice Terraces are located far from the busy central district and away from touristy crowds.

Take a peaceful stroll through trails of endless green, or opt for renting a bike to get around.

 Cost
IDR 40000 per person

The Bali water palace of Tirtagangga is a stunning piece of Balinese architecture. It is a place of reverence for Hindus and a former royal palace for the Raja of Karangasem. A maze of tiered fountains, stone sculptures, pavilions and koi fish ponds, you will definitely enjoy studying the history of its serene waters and how the palace came to be.
