7-Hemingway:

It's another leading reputable paragraph checker and sentence corrector fruitful for professionals, students, and content writers. It precisely scans your text and highlights the errors, and offers correspondence to the highlighted words or phrases.

The software had two kinds; a Hemingway app and a Hemingway editor. The best parts? Firstly, it's free, secondly, you can use it without an internet connection.

It has an advanced design with really unique features and options. You get two options on the upper side of the app: write and edit. The app is full of features. It tells readability, Reading time, letters, characters, words, sentences, paragraphs, adverbs, use of passive voice, phrases have a simpler alternative and are hard to read sentences.

The accuracy rate is more as compared to Grammarly.

It has a price of $20 but the interesting part is that it is for a lifetime. So, I prefer it because it's really cheap compared to the above tools.

Features include:

- Check out your documents using different formatting tools.
- Brings improvement in the readability of your content.
- It does monitor the number of adverbs and passive voice use.
- You can also receive the report analysis of your document's grammar level.

8-Whitesmoke:

The list of topmost alternatives would not be completed without this one of the leading writing tools. It is compatible with Windows, IOS, and all types of other browsers.

It has a decent look. If you want to check your grammar mistakes you will get two options in the downward direction named as check text where you can have a look at your grammar errors and apply changes where you can apply the changes that you have done right then.

Grammarly and Whitesmoke both have cut to cut accuracy so it's hard to tell about this.

It gives three main packages according to your requirement. The first package is known as essential which is for writers and students for $4.16. The second is known as premium for $6.67. The third one is for the business class known as Business for $11.50.
