

Fashion news

A new Kiwi shoe designer, lovely ladylike lace, stylish eyewear and earrings, and advice about buying jeans.

Edited by FLEUR MEALING

New label

Designed by 26-year-old Nicole Schoefisch-Rebstock, Reb footwear specialises in refined European style. Invest in beautiful shoes made and designed right here in New Zealand. rebfootwear.com

Look like a lady this winter in beautiful lace. Juliette Hogan, a favourite designer of Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern, has released the timeless Tessa swing-style dress that is perfect for any special occasion.

Tessa dress, $569. juliettehogan.com

HOOP LA LA!
The new Sunset earrings from Kagi are a funky update on the classic hoop. In a combo of sterling silver and rose gold, they're a versatile piece for everyday wear. $129, kagi.net.

EYES AND EARS

Hit frames

Kylie Minogue is set to unveil the latest additions to her eyewear collection, available exclusively at Specsavers. The frames take their names from the pop star's hit songs, including Love at First Sight (above). From $299, see specsavers.co.nz.

ASK LJUBENKA

Q My sister and I find jeans shopping incredibly difficult! There are so many styles and we usually leave the store without anything. I am a curvy lady on the shorter side with larger thighs. My sister is much taller but still a bigger woman who also considers her thighs a problem area. What styles would you recommend for us?

Shopping for jeans can be tricky and difficult for most people, regardless of their shape or size. If your thighs are your greatest concern when wearing jeans, I would be looking for styles with wide-leg flares, a boot-leg, or a straight-leg cut, preferably in stretch denim. Culottes are another style to consider. Generally speaking, the more you pay for your jeans, the better the fit will be. A high-rise is going to work best for your silhouette, and jeans with a relaxed fit will accentuate your waist and flatter your curves. It's important to try on as many jeans as you can until you find the right fit, even though it can be frustrating. When you do find a brand or style that works for your beautiful body, try and stick to it if possible. Happy shopping! See Ljubenka on Instagram @holdtheglamour.