ASK LJUBENKA

Q What is the best way to sort and pack your wardrobe when moving to a new city?

A I'm sure there are many of us who at some point in our lives will benefit from this advice and information!

The first step always is to clear out or purge your wardrobe. There is no need to pack and pay for moving clothes that you'll never wear again or that don't fit. Be sensible, realistic and diligent. Be brave.

The second step is to wash and thoroughly dry the clothes you intend to pack.

Then categorise your clothing so you know where everything is and it's all at your fingertips when you arrive in your new home.

If you're not using a moving or relocation company, make sure you use sturdy clothes boxes to accommodate your wardrobe. This will protect your clothes and keep them safe and clean throughout the move.

Next, try and roll or vacuum-seal your clothing to maximise the available packing space.

Be organised and label each box with its contents to make unpacking so much easier and quicker. This will give you ready access to your wardrobe at the other end of your move.

And remember, be patient, take your time and stay calm – the end is near.

Happy and safe moving!
