

Salomon Speedcross 5 Trail Running Shoe - Men's

Last night it rained nonstop and made the trails a swampy, muddy mess- but you're not worried- you throw on your Salomon Speedcross 5 Trail Running shoe and attack any trail in any condition. Large lugs on the sole of the shoe create unmatched stability for sharp turns in mud or on rocky slopes. Salomon has been perfecting the trail running shoe for nearly a decade and excels at creating a shoe that attacks the mountain, but not your feet. An improved, larger heel unit adds support and cradles the heel as you leap over puddles and rocks. Lastly, the outer material is soft and supple keeping your feet aerated and happy while you thrash through miles of mud.

The North Face Eco Trail Sleeping Bag: 20F Synthetic

The North Face Eco Trail Sleeping Bag is a practical, comfortable option for nearly any camping situation- from a weekend getaway in Moab to a 5-day backpacking trip in the Rocky Mountains. The three season construction means you will be warm when the wildflowers begin to bloom all the way through when the trees begin to shed their leaves- all without being too toasting on hot summer nights. Then you can also sleep better knowing your sleeping bag is made from 100% recycled materials.

Patagonia Powslayer Jacket - Women's

When a knight goes on his journey to slay a dragon, he is wearing a suit of metal armor, when you are on a journey to seek out the best powder stash on the mountain, you wear the Patagonia Powslayer. With multiple pockets throughout the jacket you can pack all of the fuel and equipment you need for a long skin in. The jacket also boasts features like a helmet compatible hood, removable powder skirt, and GOR-TEX PRO fabric deliver the highest level of wind and waterproofness as you face the elements in search of powder turns. Whether your adventure for snorkel worthy powder takes you to Jackson Hole or the Wasatch backcountry- this jacket helps you journey with confidence.