

Well & good

Little things that make life more liveable.

BRIMMING OVER

Everyone has a head, but finding the right hat for yours is somehow never as straightforward as you'd expect it to be. That's why we're thrilled to report that Brim's latest collection includes oodles of visors, caps and sunhats, plus scrunchies and headbands too.

DRY, DRY AGAIN

Never-ending by nature, laundry's not exactly a fun task, but George and Willy's American ash Everyday Drying Rack makes it a lot better. It even comes with a matching timber hook, so you can hang it out of sight when you're up to something more interesting.

SLOWLY BUT SURELY

Forage & Ferment's Wild Kraut and Wild Kimchi is made in Clevedon by wife-and-husband duo Kelli Walker and Simon Allen. To ensure it's as flavoursome and nourishing as possible, they take their sweet time, letting the natural microbes do the heavy lifting while they source veges from local growers and tend to the herbs and other edibles in their garden 'farmacy'.

LOUNGE ACT

Perfectly placed to cater to our post-holiday-indulgence hankering for forgiving, loose-fitting get-ups, Penney & Bennett has extended its repertoire to include loungewear. Cascades is a collection of cotton sleep shirts, drawstring shorts and pants, a jacket and a long robe, all in a hand-painted ponga-frond print.

POOL RESOURCE

Founder of Australian textile label Købn, Sophie Matson, was tired of garish beach towels ruining the aesthetic poolside, so put her mind to creating a range with all the cool — and the muted colour palette — of that beacon of style, Copenhagen. Lightweight, absorbent and made in a family-owned ethical mill in Turkey, they're now available locally through Tauranga-based Pop Factory.

BOOM

If you were alive in the '90s, you'll be down with potpourri, and now it's back with a bang in the form of this chic version by Melbourne's Milligram Studio. Made from volcanic scoria and inspired by fires under Australia's night skies, Nocturne's seven notable notes include buddhawood and honey.

NEW YEAR, NEW SELF-CARE

There's no time like the start of the year to overhaul your habits, and Yūki-yō beauty products and accessories make it easy to step up your game. Nelson sisters Poppy Macphedran (a makeup artist) and Jodi Calder (an educator and skincare alchemist) concoct them from organic, wild and natural ingredients, and our hot pick is their Rosehip Radiance Exfoliating Dust, a powdered detoxifier you mix with water and smooth on like a mask.
