

Cinema Of The Week: Crouch End Picturehouse

There's been a cinema in Crouch End since 1911 and curiously that first venue was also called the Picture House! The business reinvented itself a number of times over the years and was then closed at the outbreak of the Second World War. It was badly damaged during the Blitz and demolished soon after.

Rosebery House was built on the same site in the late 1950s, the area's only surviving example of 1950s-60s Modernism.

Cinema returned to the site in 2015, when award-winning architects Panter Hudspith incorporated that Modernism to create the Crouch End Picturehouse that we know and love today.

Take a look back at Inside Picturehouse from September 2018, which was filmed on location at the cinema.

Don't Miss This!

A selection of films from the 2020 edition of the Sundance Film Festival will be available to watch from your sofas this summer, courtesy of the Celebration Of Sundance Film Festival: London. This unique new digital event will take place from Friday 7 August - Sunday 9 August.

The event opens with Uncle Frank, directed, written and produced by Alan Ball (American Beauty). The film stars Paul Bettany, Sophia Lillis and Peter Macdissi. Watch the director and the cast discuss the film in more detail in this interview on Collider.

On the 8 August, we'll be screening Luxor, directed by Zeina Durra (The Imperialists Are Live). Deadline's interview with stars Andrea Riseborough and Karim Saleh sees both actors talk about the film that changed their lives.

The celebration will close with Boys State, winner of the U.S. Grand Jury Prize: Documentary. The New York Post calls Boys State a "documentary you'll never forget". Read their full review here.

Passes are on sale now for £20. That includes access to premiere screenings of all 3 features, which will be followed by filmmaker Q&As, as well as a collection of 8 short films and two panel events with special guests.

Find out more about the event and how to buy your pass below.
