Getting There

Parking at the hotel is free. Bala and the A494 are a 10-minute drive away. The A5 at Druid is 15 minutes away. The narrow, mountainous Tanat Valley route from the A5 near Knockin is best avoided at night or in poor weather.

chandeliers, wood panelling and grand fireplaces.

The 18 bedrooms that have been individually decorated, some with William Morris prints. Each room retains period features; the bath used by Queen Victoria when she visited in 1889 is in the Victoria room.

The restaurant, which is led by Gareth Stevenson, holds three AA Rosettes. Tasting menus are served with a grand backdrop -- expect an ornate plaster ceiling, a grand fireplace and a crystal chandelier. However, as a reviewer from the Daily Post noted, dining "was a friendly experience without any stuffiness at all".

The hotel even has its own hydro-electric generating system that provides power to the whole property.
