YOUR HOME, YOUR LIFE...

Orren Pickell Building Group creates custom homes for real life luxury

You have a unique point-of-view and a lifestyle to match. Shouldn't your home be a reflection of that? The Orren Pickell Building Group believes it should — and they have over 40 years' experience designing, building and maintaining truly custom homes throughout the city of Chicago and beyond.

"Building a custom home is a luxury," the Building Group's President and CEO Orren Pickell says. "The experience should be entertaining and fulfilling. That's why we address every single phase of the building process, from the moment the initial planning stage begins until the last piece of art has been hung on the walls.

"No aspect of your home should be less than perfect. It's our job to make it that way."

Given the hundreds of national and local awards the Orren Pickell Building

Group has received for design creativity, innovation and excellence in construction, it is clearly a job they do well.

"What sets us apart is our ability to handle every aspect of a custom project," adds COO Lisa Pickell. "We are the whole team and we have the expertise, experience and resources necessary to successfully achieve each client's individual goals. What's more, we're a family business — and we see our clients as part of the family, too.

"Whether you're remodeling your current residence, building a new custom home or maintaining a home you've already built, we want to be your builder for life."
