With this in mind, she acknowledges the strength that her team possesses when working together, "I'd say we're greater as a group than the sum of our parts, and we certainly always have a lot of fun, everyone we work with brings a unique story, and different perspective which is something that I truly love."

As an open-minded and inclusive agency, VauHaus are not limited to one specific style or sector. Sharing that "because of the lack of restrictions and the variety of people we have on our books, we love anyone who is forward thinking and inclusive.
