ComplyWorks is excited to announce the acquisition of our company by Veriforce, a recognized leader in delivering comprehensive, integrated risk management solutions for organizations and their supply chains. Together our new company will be the largest player in the compliance and risk management space with over 800 leading-edge clients and more than 50,000 contractors.

Why did Veriforce and ComplyWorks merge?

Joining forces with Veriforce makes us a global leader in risk management, offering a technology platform for our clients that's second to none. Bringing our expert teams and leading technologies together strengthens our commitment to help companies navigate complex safety and regulatory environments and manage business continuity and environmental sustainability risk.

Where do we operate?

Together our two companies provide services and solutions to clients in over 120 countries with offices in Canada, the U.S., Australia and South Africa, with potential expansion plans into other regions. Our automated system makes managing compliance easy, allowing users access from anywhere, anytime across the globe.

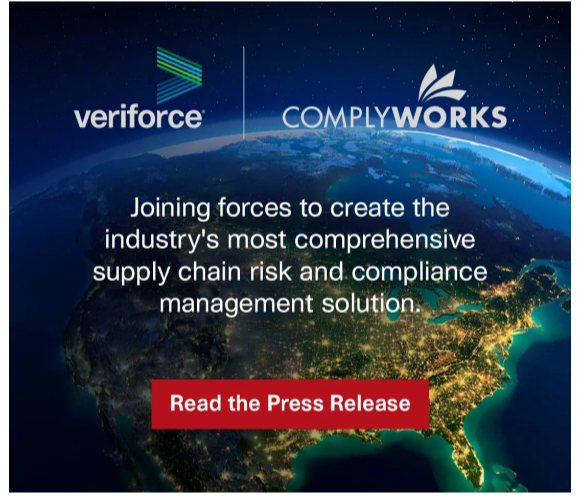

What industry sectors do we support?

Our system and solutions can help companies across a range of industries manage organization and supply chain risks. ComplyWorks and Veriforce have many clients in the energy sector in Canada and the U.S., in addition, we also serve clients in the following industries:

- Oil and gas
- Manufacturing
- Construction
- Transportation
- Healthcare
- Forestry
- Utilities
- Telecommunications
- Property management
- Aerospace
- Mining

Expanding our footprint around the world across all industries is an integral part of our growth strategy as we deliver leading comprehensive, integrated risk management solutions.

What's next?

The acquisition of ComplyWorks is an important milestone for Veriforce. The combined knowledge and expertise in technology, health, safety and risk management will strengthen our commitment to helping companies manage their third-party workforce and worksites globally to ensure compliance across all risk disciplines. Our overall goal is to send all workers home safely at the end of the day.
