Car enthusiasts are likely to flock to the Olde Stone House Village, as Washington Township's Historical Preservation Advisory Board presents its 6th annual Classic Car Show on Saturday, April 26.

"I love classic cars and it kicks off our event list for the year. It's good to have everyone out for a nice, relaxing day," said Nick Appice, chairman of the Washington Township Historical Preservation Advisory Board.

Running from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., the Classic Car Show will include a basket auction, a DJ, a 50/50 raffle, food vendors and tours of the Old Stone House Village. Spectators will be given free admission, but those entering their vintage cars in the show will have to pay a $10 pre-registration fee before April 14 and a $15 fee after April 14 or the day of the show. Registration begins at 9 a.m.

Cars will be divided up into two classes — models 25 years and older and models from 1990 and onward. The winner of the vintage car class will be awarded a trophy. The newer car class is without a trophy, and the vehicles are eligible for display with a $5 donation. All those who enter their car will be placed in a drawing for a door prize, Appice said.

It is estimated that there will be about 100 cars in the show and attendance has grown every year, Appice added.

"Historic cars are a part of history ... they might not be the oldest thing, but it's a part of American history," he said.

Rain date is Sunday, April 27. The car show will be located on 208 Egg Harbor Road, in Sewell.
