How to Unlock iPad Without iTunes Using PassFab iPhone Unlocker

Some people prefer not to use iTunes because of how clunky it is. Earlier versions of the software ran well, but the most recent versions seem to have encountered some lag issues. This software offers a free trial, so you can get started once you install everything. Surf on over to the site and download the correct version for your computer. Once the software has downloaded, open it and select Start, then click Next.
- Step 3: Download the firmware and start unlocking - To unlock your iPad, you'll need to download the matching firmware package. Choose your save directory and click Download. Wait for a few moments, and your firmware should download. Once this download is complete, click Start Remove. Then have a cup of tea. Unlocking will take just a few minutes.

How to Unlock iPad Without iTunes Using iCloud

If your device is damaged, but you still remember your Apple ID and password, you can unlock your iPad using iCloud. The caveats here are that you'll have to have Find My iPad turned on, and your iPad will need to be connected to the internet for this process to work.

Also, by using iCloud, you will erase the data that is on the iPad. But using PassFab iPhone Unlocker to fix a disabled iPad is easier and you don't need a password.

Nonetheless, here's how it works:

- Step 1: Open iCloud, and enter your Apple ID and password. From there, click Find iPhone.
- Step 2: Click on All Devices and choose your iPad from the list. Choose Erase iPad from the dropdown menu, and click Erase. This action will erase all data from your iPad.
