

Seattle Pacific's Tuition Reimagined program, which takes effect in Fall 2021, addresses the consistent educational barrier presented by rising tuition costs – tuition will be cut by 25%, and new scholarships will be introduced. <https://spu.edu/tuition-reimagined>

During the last presidential election, popular vote did not match up with election results. "As we approach this November's election," SPU Professor Emeritus of History Bill Woodward points out, "fears have grown that it could happen again." Read Dr. Woodward's analysis of the benefits and drawbacks of the Electoral College here: <https://spu.edu/about-spu/events/constitution-day/archive/constitution-day-2020>

Many of us are feeling cooped up, especially with a few rainy days on the way. If you're looking for a relaxing and cozy day in, you may want to grab a blanket and order some takeout from one of the many food trucks Seattle has to offer: <https://spu.edu/stories/articles/seattle-food-trucks/>

The historic building formerly known as Alexander Hall was renamed "Alexander and Adelaide Hall" to commemorate the significant contributions of Adelaide Beers. Her efforts continue to impact many alumnae: <https://spu.edu/stories/articles/making-their-mark/>

Award-winning soloist and collaborative artist Dainius Vaičekonis shares an insider's look at Lithuania's liberation from the Soviet Union, an experience which taught him to "see the world with grateful eyes." <https://spu.edu/stories/articles/what-freedom-means-to-me/>

SPU's 2020 Days of Common Learning, October 5-9, are hosted virtually this year. Former presidential candidate Andrew Yang will bring us the keynote address, "The Future of Work in the Age of a Pandemic, Sociopolitical Disruption, and Rapid Technological Change," on Friday, October 9. @AndrewYang <https://spu.edu/administration/faculty-life-office/events/days-of-common-learning-2020> #SPUDCL

SPU faculty and local church leaders invite students and community members to participate in "For Such a Time as This," a virtual forum on race and faith. The forum will take place on October 20 at 6:30 p.m. Register here: <https://spu.edu/academics/seattle-pacific-seminary/news-archive/seminary-news/2020/for-such-a-time>

Snowvember Tradition is tomorrow! It's drive-in movie night, and The Grinch (2018) will be screened in the Emerson Parking Lot at 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Drive in or join online via teleparty! RSVP here: <https://spu.campuslabs.com/engage/event/6570569>

Students: You can schedule a remote academic coaching appointment with the Center for Learning for expert help in time management, study strategies, note taking, and more. <https://spu.edu/administration/center-for-learning/schedule-cfl>

The SPU Office of Inclusive Excellence invites all SPU students, faculty, and staff to the virtual event "Tell the Whole Story" with Sheila Wise Rowe, author of Healing Racial Trauma: The Road to Resilience tomorrow, November 13, from 12-1 p.m. Register here: <https://outlook.office365.com/owa/calendar/OfficeofInclusiveExcellence@spu.edu/bookings/s/sN8SAT-0006b3pILKaUcMw2>