(MUSIC IN) DANNY GLOVER: As parents we want to help children grow into happy, healthy, caring adults.

When our schools ask for our help to pay for new equipment in special programs, we do all we can. In fact, we do more. Through the efforts of parent and students volunteers, America's school and youth groups earn nearly two billion dollars each year by participating in Product Fund Raising Drives.

The money pays for computers, art, playground equipment and other programs that enrich young lives.

Because children are involved in fund raising, they need guidance and close supervision. When you and your child volunteer to help,

focus your efforts on family and friends.

Where the fund raising is done inside or outside the home, make sure a responsible adult is present.

Fund raising is a time honored tradition and an important resource for America's schools. Please support these efforts and help keep them safe for our kids.
