

Could you give up coffee for one week?

What if we said that the $30 you spent last week on venti sugarfree hazelnut lattes could buy a backstage pass to resources and careers in food R & D?

Seriously.

Students: Teachers:

The Research Chefs Association is looking for tomorrow's food innovators. We think you may be one of them. For the everyday low price of $30, you gain instant year-round access to today's top food developers, scholarships, internships, regional events, mentoring programs, poster presentations and the Culinology® Student Competitions.

The Research Chefs Association is now offering a one-time, one-year special introductory membership (worth $145) to food science and culinary instructors at a deeply discounted price of $30. We don't do this very often but we are certain that this small investment will result in a life changing experience for at least one of your students.

Culinology.org