

Interaction start work on new Bristol co-working space

Jul 13, 2018

 LinkedIn

 Twitter

Interaction, the Bath-based workplace design and build firm, have started work on Runway East's new Victoria Street co-working space in Bristol.

Runway East help startups to take-off and co-working communities to grow. With three co-working spaces in London, the team are keen to develop their services – and have therefore added a Bristol space to their portfolio.

Believing that startups take off when they work side by side, each of Runway East's spaces (or runways) are designed and built meticulously, specifically created to inject energy, fun and friendship into their members' work. No wonder that the team decided to partner with Interaction, who specialise in creative workplaces that place people at the centre – and those that significantly enhance collaboration, wellbeing, and productivity.

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept forward-thinking companies into the space. I can't wait to see our designs brought to life in the next few weeks".

LinkedIn

Twitter

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept