Sector: Technology

Size: 13,504 sq ft

The Vision:

When fast-growing Nuvias established a new HQ in a refurbished space in Woking, the company called on us to complete the design and fit-out works.

With a goal to redefine value distribution to the IT channel by 2020, the team needed a modern space that matched the company's reputation – and one that would facilitate more efficient and flexible ways of working.

The Result:

Overall, practicality and visual appeal have been seamlessly combined. With the company previously known as Wick Hill (before Nuvias' acquisition in 2016), the fit out has ensured the space matches the brand and exceptional reputation of the wider Nuvias Group.

As well as creating a great impression for clients, the fit-out has provided an array of spaces for staff members, including a host of meeting areas, a fully functional boardroom and café breakout area. This gives staff members the choice and flexibility to work and move around the space as and when is required – which is great news for wellbeing and productivity.

The Feedback:

“Interaction took our very specific requirements on board and embraced the Nuvias branding, enabling us to present a professional and corporate image. We found them to be extremely friendly and professional, and they fully interpreted our ideas and plans for the new office. We often diversified from the original specifications and Interaction always embraced the changes, which allowed us to create a bespoke and functional space which fits perfectly with our business.

“We are thrilled to have an amazing, fun and professional workspace that brings the entire team together and that is loved by not just the staff, but also by our vendors and partners. We cannot thank Interaction enough for their hard work, commitment and creativity in providing us with an office we are all incredibly proud of”.
