Answers.

What industries do you serve?

Our client list includes small and mid-level firms in the technology, medical, industrial, construction, and manufacturing industries, though we have the expertise to serve clients in other areas as well. We'd be happy to talk to you about whether MSP Accounting P.C. is the right choice for your business.

What hours are you available?

Our business hours are 8:00am to 5:00pm, Monday through Friday, but if your business requires flexibility, we can also accommodate evening or weekend appointments.

What can I expect at my initial consultation?

Your first consultation is free, and focuses on establishing a clear understanding of your challenges and goals. This is an opportunity for both of us to ask questions and consider solutions, and will include a preliminary review and tax analysis in order to determine the best path forward.

How do you bill for your services?

Our services are billed at standard hourly rates for time spent. Rates vary based on the specific service provided and the individual doing the work. We also offer certain bookkeeping and payroll services for a flat monthly fee. In all cases, we will clearly communicate in writing all costs prior to providing the services.

What role do you play if the IRS audits me?

If you are audited, we will be involved to explain and defend all aspects of returns and accounting that we have prepared. In most cases, you will not need to be present for the examination process.

How can MSP Accounting P.C. help me grow?

Our expertise goes beyond ensuring the operational compliance that protects your bottom line today – we work closely with you to identify and capitalize on opportunities to reduce taxes, increase cash flow, eliminate debt, and create a path for future growth.

What steps can I take to reach my financial goals?

While there are consistent tactics for establishing a stable financial framework, every business is different and the effective financial plan for one can be quite different for another. Let's start with a conversation and collaborate on a plan that best serves you and your business.
