REDHAWK DAWN! CRAWFORD TO DEPLOY ROTC TO UKRAINE

EAST QUAD — On February 16 at 6 a.m., ROTC special operatives breached the Farmer School of Business (FSB) in a live-fire exercise simulating a siege on the Federal'naya Sluzhba Bezopasnosti (FSB) headquarters.

This unannounced exercise preceded an email from President Crawford regarding the deployment of ROTC troops to the Ukraine-Russian border.

“Dear Miami Community,” Crawford declared. “Russia’s military pressure [on Ukraine] is a clear and present danger to [...] our study abroad programs, retention rates, and alumni donations.”

The DEI Task Force reported nearly 190,000 Russian troops amassing for an imminent incursion, which has provoked the university and its allies to intervene.

Miami University’s prior aid has included COVID-19 test kits, AK-74 parts kits, and a new miniMBA in urban combat training; One Stop has also provided financial aid.

Over J-Term, MU-Wireless suffered a cyberattack in retaliation to this aid, according to IT Services.

“There will be in-person consequences.”

Student Engagement and Leadership ambassadors warn that escalating MU involvement may jeopardize the possibility of diplomacy.

“Bell Tower is one minute to midnight,” Dining Services announced. “This doesn’t mean [Bell Tower] will reopen.”

Even so, the university prepares for war.

The NATO and ROTC joint operation entails an active engagement of students against enemy troops at the Kharkiv, Ukraine regional campus.

Each conscripted undergraduate will be armed with a fully automatic rifle and a liberal arts education.

MREs will consist of dining hall grilled chicken, local tap water, and an electronic cigarette; MUlaa cannot be exchanged for Ukrainian hryvnia or any other currency.

The Associated Student Government will vote on a bill allowing academic advisors to force add able-bodied freshman to the battlefield as soon as next week.

The Office of Equity and Equal Opportunity has meanwhile proposed the Love and War Act to ensure all is fair and that “no student will be terminated with extreme prejudice.”

The Howe Writing Center will refuse to help students dodge the draft, citing concerns of militaristic dishonesty.

All students will need to upload proof of vaccination before they are eligible to die for their university.

Remember your training. Cut the red wire. Share the yellow paper.

BRAND NEW MILITARY-INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX CO-MAJOR ANNOUNCED

The Board of Trustees has endorsed a new co-major to meet the growing demand for innovative annihilation.

The Department of Mechanical and Manufacturing Engineering will launch a Military-Industrial Complex (MIC) co-major in Fall 2022.

MIC leverages an interdisciplinary curriculum of weapons engineering and computing, geo-economics, and civilian casualty management and leadership courses.

Career growth opportunities encompass political networking, hands-on workshops with lock-on weapon systems, and an externship on an assembly line testing explosive munitions with mallets.

Global Initiatives also plans for students to skirmish abroad remotely via unmanned ariel combat vehicles and engage with start-up militias in destabilized sectors.

Funding comes from siphoned humanities budgets, your tax dollars and tuition, and a force-multiplying endowment.

“Business is booming,” a Lockheed Martin executive wrote in the memo of a check paid to the order of [REDACTED]. “Here’s to a better tomorrow.”

For more information, search online for “Lockheed Martin F22 program,” or join the Women in Aerospace and Robotics (WAR Hawks) student think tank.

The Department of Computer Science and Software Engineering has also announced a new degree pertaining to national security.

Next semester, students can pursue a major in browser history; those seeking a minor can expect to be pursued by the FBI.

THE WEATHER

Tensions are going to rise as we reach record high troop presence across the region. The eastern front is moving in, bringing reinforcements in the cover of night that may precipitate a nuclear winter.

STUDENT LIFE USES CARBON MONOXIDE FOR ROOM INSPECTIONS

WESTERN CAMPUS — On February 20 at 10:01 p.m., RAs successfully raided several residence halls with flashbangs, battering rams, and new carbon monoxide canisters as part of Miami University’s commitment to keeping students safe.

The Office of Residence Life and Death reported “six half-empty bottles of liquor, 13 containers of anti-anxiety medication, one unlicensed carbon monoxide detector, four candles, and other miscellaneous paraphernalia among 200 bodies.”

The Hillcrest Hall carbon monoxide incident on November 18, 2021 served as inspiration for the “no-knock knockout” room entry strategy, which other public universities were quick to adopt.

Undergraduate research — research on undergraduates, that is — has concluded that carbon monoxide “poisoning” helps students improve their sleeping habits.
