

Subj: Eric - Oracle teams up w/ Cohere to supercharge apps w/ generative AI; chat w/ Cohere President?

Hi Eric,

This morning Oracle announced a major partnership with Cohere to leverage their models and provide generative AI services for Oracle customers. The news comes on the heels of Oracle's participation in Cohere's $270M Series C raise, which was announced last week.

Through the partnership, Cohere will train, build, and deploy its generative AI models on Oracle Cloud Infrastructure (OCI), which is uniquely suited to run AI workloads securely and efficiently at scale. Cohere's language models will be directly embedded in Oracle's business applications so customers can quickly and safely deploy generative AI solutions where needed.

Cohere's President & COO, Martin Kon, can share more on the scope and details of the partnership and what the recent momentum means for Cohere over the next few months. Any interest in hopping on a quick call to discuss?

Thanks,
Christian
