Broadway's 'To Kill a Mockingbird' Readies For Garden Visit

Actor Kyle Scatliffe has gone to Madison Square Garden plenty of times — for a Rangers game, a Muse concert and a WWE event. Next week, he's going back again, but this time he won't be in the seats. Scatliffe on Wednesday will be starring in the hit Broadway play "To Kill a Mockingbird" when it relocates to the Garden for an exclusive, one-time-only performance in front of 18,000 public school children.

Show at Sharon Offers Trip Through Hindi Cinema History

By KRISTEN FIORE | Daily Sun Senior Writer

Take a multimedia journey through Bollywood dance, live music and the history of Hindi cinema all in one show.

The show is Bollywood Boulevard, set to come to The Sharon L. Morse Performing Arts Center at 7 p.m. April 3 as part of the venue's international series.

"It's over a hundred years of Bollywood in 90 minutes," said Heena Patel, executive producer and artistic director of the show. "It is a nonstop, super-entertaining journey where you'll get to see so many different styles of dance and costumes and hear live music."

Since Bollywood isn't one particular style of music or dance, audiences will see and hear a lot of variety, Patel added. "I grew up watching Bollywood movies, dancing to Bollywood songs and listening to this music," she said. "It has shaped so much of my cultural life, and we want to share that and spark people's curiosity."

Patel said the show is made for everyone, no matter "who you are, what your background is or if you know Bollywood or not."

The performance will show the history of the Hindi film industry, from the first Bollywood film to today. Costumes and dance styles will reflect the time period, and a backdrop will project animated visuals.

"It's more than just sequined costumes," Patel said. "There will be lots of color, but you'll see love and romance, storytelling and a range of emotions. At the end of the day, storytelling is at the heart of Hindi cinema and films. We tell it through our dances and music."

Hindi cinema has its own celebrities, like Hollywood with Marilyn Monroe and Charlie Chaplin or Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie, Patel said.

Famous Bollywood actors like Priyanka Chopra and Raj Kapoor will be portrayed in the show.

"The range of reactions to the show is beautiful," Patel said. "We've had all these people from different age backgrounds and ethnicities walk away with positive, unique experiences."

The show has a diverse team, as well.

"I got a chance to bring people together from all around the world," Patel said. "We've had artists from India, as well as the U.S., and people who have lived in places like Tanzania and London. This show has shown how global the reach of this is and how it's affected all of us."

Tickets to the show range from $25 to $60 and can be purchased online at thevillagesentertainment.com or at any Villages Box Office location.
