THE TAILORED HOME MOVES ITS WESTPORT STORE INTO SCONSET SQUARE BY LAUREN FETTERMAN

With a tagline that promises, “Interiors and furniture design that stretch the bounds of color and era,” The Tailored Home guarantees to make a statement. With Jhon Ortiz and Scott Falciglia at the helm, the business is known for its interior design services, customizable and original furniture design, reupholstery services, curated fabric library, custom window treatments and a chic selection of light fixtures and home décor. Designers and enthusiasts have loved stopping by their two stores—in Westport and Greenwich—while custom furniture, reupholstery and window treatment orders are completed in their proprietary studio in Norwalk.

However, after spending five years at their Westport location on Post Road, it felt like it was time for a change of scenery. “After opening our Westport store in 2015, we were hungry for a downtown experience, so we opened a store at the top of Greenwich Avenue,” says Falciglia. “We were really pleased with that move, so we decided to make the same move in Westport.”

They found the downtown vibe they were looking for in Westport’s Sconset Square. Originally four separate units, the new store is now one open space spanning two floors, with an open steel staircase connecting the two.

With a focus on interior design, furniture design and their curated fabric library, the store offers an experience informed by The Tailored Home’s love for color and different eras. “We’re really proud of our tagline; it feels good every time we say it,” says Falciglia. “It was the driver behind what we wanted for the new store—it drove the wallpaper, the color of the window trim, the lacquered ceiling, the light fixtures, the vignettes and the unique accessories and art. You can look around and see different pieces of furniture, and some look like they were inspired by period pieces, but from all different periods. We feel like our tagline is really upheld by the experience you have moving through the space.”

In addition, customers can soon pop into the store’s Studio Café, which will open later this spring. “Jhon and I love entertaining, and we love going out to eat,” says Falciglia. “Westport has such a great dining experience, and we wanted to contribute to what’s already going on here.” 15 Myrtle Avenue, Westport; 203-292-9111; thetailoredhomect.com
