

Subject Line: Important PharmD Application Update

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 2020

Hi {{First Name}},

I wanted to reach out and let interested applicants know, USC School of Pharmacy has heard you! The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in many changes for all of us. You are likely one of the many individuals who have had to adjust their course schedules, acclimate to a virtual setting, and/or delay plans to fit your new normal. Many applicants have commented that they wanted to see what happens with the current COVID-19 pandemic prior to applying. With that in mind, I'm writing to share an important and exciting update on behalf of the USC School of Pharmacy PharmD program: the PharmD Admission Committee has decided to extend the PharmCAS application deadline from Tuesday, December 1, 2020, to Monday, February 1, 2021 (11:59 pm Hawaii Time).

Although the deadline has been moved, I still encourage you to submit your application sooner rather than later. We have rolling admission, with multiple virtual interviews through March 2021, so the sooner you turn in your application, the more interview dates you have the possibility of being invited to. Applying sooner also gives you access to scholarships that may be awarded earlier in the application cycle.

If you have additional questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to me by responding to this email or by emailing dibbini@usc.edu. I'm more than happy to help.

Fight On!
