Twenty-four little hours

Switching your daytime look to night mode requires finesse. But this season, Etro's 24-hour jacket has got you covered

Story by Sophie Clark

With the demanding speed of modern life, we've become well acquainted with the art of multitasking. But no matter how demanding life can be, we still like to save time and look good doing so. Thankfully, Etro's new "24-hour" jacket collection mirrors this concept. Each one combines Italian tailoring with a relaxed contemporary vibe that promises to take you from the boardroom to a first date without sacrificing an ounce of style. In Etro's true, eclectic style, the collection is formed of jackets in paisley prints, checks and florals, with crepe lining and contrasting under-collars, sporting micro geometric patterns. Your comfort will be taken care of too with the softness and ease of wool- and cotton-blend jersey, yet the outerwear elegance still remains. In this new approach to dressing, consider these jackets your secret style weapons.
