

Business Plan After College

Having my introduction to college be in the middle of a pandemic has not been easy, nor has it been ideal for anyone. Becoming a business major has always been my main goal in coming to college. In high school I even had access to business introduction courses that I was able to ace effortlessly. I was always told that becoming a business major was one of the easiest to accomplish and all the students just went to parties since they had such a light workload. I disagree though, I have been swamped with accounting homework and statistic homework as well as all my other courses. This major has become more difficult as the classes become more advance.

After I get my bachelor's degree, I might want to continue school and gain my master's. I do think it will help a lot especially in the business field. Going through school to do extensive study work will be very beneficial in the business world so that I will be able to have a clear understanding of everything that happens in the company.

Once I graduate, I plan on becoming a marketing director for a large company in New York. It has always been a dream of mine to become a professional corporate woman that oversees such an important department in the company. With the business world being majority men, I think it is important for women to step into this field and have important positions to prove that men do not run everything. Females only account for 47% of the business workforce while the rest is men. Women are close to reaching 50% unfortunately their pay is only 77% of what men receive. I think men and women should receive the same pay, after all these years, we are doing the same amount of work.
