

Meet The Man With A Plan

By Brianna Sparrow

Born August 9th, 1994 Greg Lewis knew he was destined for greatness. Throughout his life Greg has faced many challenges but those challenges never changed who he was. His mother, who is his biggest motivation, has always pushed him to follow his dreams regardless of the obstacles that may come.

As a kid, he was raised to live life with no regrets and to embrace himself. However it wasn't until his sophomore year of College that Greg truly found out who he was. Although he was always confident, creative and outgoing, a traumatic experience left him to wonder if he was living his life to the fullest extent. From that moment on Greg made a vow to himself that he would always live like there's no tomorrow and focus on his dreams and aspirations.

Andrew Murphy, New York Times Best Selling author, says "You are only confined by the walls you build yourself." This means so much to Greg that he decided to leave his hometown of Lakeland Florida and head 100 miles away from his family and friends for college. He knew this decision would not be easy but he remained positive and kept his faith that was instilled in him as a child.

Greg has always had a passion for music, poetry and visual art. About five years ago, Lewis decided that after being introduced to photojournalism, that it was the field he wanted to pursue. In Spring of 2018, Greg Graduated from Bethune Cookman University with a BA in Communications with a focus in Editorial Print. He believes that every picture tells a story and he aims to inspire and create through photography and visual artwork.

Within the next three years, Mr. Lewis plans to hold a corporate position at a magazine or become the Editor In Chief of his own magazine geared towards the African American Community. The odds will always favor a man with a plan and that man is Mr. Greg Lewis!
