

Operations Team Lead

Are you tired of working unfulfilling job after job? Are you looking for a position that will keep you in a great "flow" throughout your work day? Have you always wanted to be in a leadership position? If you've answered 'yes' to these questions: Welcome to Nolato Contour. We're a rapidly growing medical equipment manufacturer and we're hoping you'll join us in our success.

Our starting pay for this position is $___/hour. But here at Nolato Contour, your hourly pay is just the beginning. Twice yearly raises, holiday bonuses, and up to $5k tuition reimbursement per year are just a few of the ways we show our appreciation for your hard work. Plus, we have an onsite clinic for you and your loved ones, an onsite gym, and from time to time we throw a pretty mean party.

What will your day look like?

- Printing work orders for products
- Confronting sensitive topics such as attendance, drug testing, etc.
- Identifying problems and using already carved-out methodologies to improve on them
- Figuring out how to make important decisions that save time when hiccups inhibit productivity
- Using what you've learned about your team to best fit each member to the position that suits them best
- Provide coverage to those on the team that would benefit from LAL training
- Manage onboarding new team members as well as keeping current team members up to date on training
- Keep a keen eye on the floor to ensure production is running as smoothly as possible
- Train your team members to visually inspect their machines
- Collaborate with other shifts to ensure all members have coverage as it relates to vacations and/or training
- Ensure all team members across all shifts are on the same page
- Partner with the Lead Technician so that everything runs as smooth as possible
- Tackle any other responsibilities that may pop up throughout the work day

What we ask of you

required*

- High school diploma or equivalent*
- Three years experience in a production environment*
- Nice to have but not required: Associates degree or supervisory certification, First responder trained and certified, Prior experience in ISO 9001, ISO 13485 (or in an FDA certified environment), and ISO 14001

Why Nolato Contour? Because we want you to have it all

- A reliable paycheck; we won't leave you guessing whether or not you've worked enough hours to make rent.
- A stable career with growth from within the company you already love working with
- Regular bonuses; we know that as you grow with us, your time will only become more valuable and we want to honor that
- Job security in an unstable market
- An onsite clinic for you and your loved ones
- A responsive employer; we work with you so you'll love working with us
- A vibrant yet professional work environment; we facilitate tailgate parties, potlucks, pizza parties and more all so we can truly show you how much your hard work means to us
- Your creative solutions will not only be recognized, but implemented as well
- Up to $5k reimbursement of your tuition every year; we want to support you in achieving all of your academic goals
- Plus so many more stellar benefits; 401(k) retirement savings, life and disability insurance, paid holiday and vacation days, just to name a few.

About Nolato Contour

Most workplaces leave their employees feeling stressed and unfulfilled. But here at Nolato Contour you'll discover a stable environment where you can do your best work. You'll be surrounded by a great team to support you in making critical medical parts for famous brands. You'll find that the high level of care and attention we put into our products is the same care and attention we give our employees. Our people enjoy perks like an on-site clinic, regular incentive bonuses, and clear promotion opportunities. Because at Nolato Contour, we believe work should make things better