

Bloomin' lovely

We ask PB readers about the hottest mum-to-be fashion trends

Chantal Lickman, 22, from Winchester, 33 weeks pregnant

Wears Floral-print dress, Topshop; black ankle boots and tights, New Look; necklace, Accessorize.
Favourite brand "I love stuff from Topshop. They do a great range of maternity clothes. It's young, fashionable and not too plain."
Style tip "Stay true to your pre-bump style. Don't start wearing frumpy and boring clothes just because you're pregnant."

Becky Gower, 25, from Ramsgate, 23 weeks pregnant

Wears Red cardigan, Zara; short printed dress, Primark; opaque tights, H&M; red peep-toe shoes, New Look; necklace, gift from Barcelona.
Favourite brand "Asos do great dresses for under £30 and they always follow the latest trends."
Style tip "Buy the long vests that Primark do. They stretch with you during pregnancy and can even be worn during breastfeeding because you can move them easily."

Samantha Hull, 30, from Croydon, 37 weeks pregnant

Wears Grey tunic and brown leggings, H&M; shoes, New Look.
Favourite brand "I love the high street, especially H&M. The clothes are reasonably priced as well as being comfortable and fashionable. For shoes, New Look is always my go-to place – I love a wedge."
Style tip "You can't look good if you don't feel good – just make sure to continue buying clothes that suit you and you'll be fine."

Michelle Harrison, 30, from Norwich, 25 weeks pregnant

Wears Dress, Warehouse; shoes, Barratts.

Favourite brand "I love the Blooming Marvellous range in Mothercare as their clothes fit my bump perfectly and they come in lovely patterns."

Style tip "Just buy non-maternity brands in a size up from your usual as it keeps you on trend and comfortable too!"

Antoinette Reid, 34, from South London, 30 weeks pregnant

Wears Dress, Primark; tights and shoes, New Look.

Favourite brand "I haven't bought too much clothing during my pregnancy, but when I do go shopping I like H&M and Debenhams because their clothes are stretchy and comfortable."

Style tip "Stock up on things you're happy to wear. Leggings are a wardrobe saviour for any mum-to-be."

Rebecca Bramley, 23, from Milton Keynes, 29 weeks pregnant

Wears Top and jeans, H&M; silver court shoes, Dune.

Favourite brand "I love H&M because you can buy so many maternity pieces without breaking the bank. Plus, their range is stylish, so I can stay true to myself."

Style tip "Being pregnant, you have days when you don't feel as glam. I find making time to do my hair and make-up picks me up."

Simrit Sandhu, 30, from Belvedere, Kent, 34 weeks pregnant

Wears Printed tunic and black jeans, Dorothy Perkins; shoes, Dune.

Favourite brand "I find it hard to shop for maternity wear. I tend to buy normal clothes in bigger sizes, but I have bought a few pregnancy bits from M&S."

Style tip "Leggings are a must as you can wear them before, during and after your pregnancy."
