WELCOME

The Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce welcomes you to the beautiful coast in northeastern North Carolinas known as the Outer Banks. Not only does the region boast over 120 miles of some of the best beaches in the world, it is home to unique retail shops and opportunities, world-class restaurants serving local seafood and more, and accommodations to fit every need, including long-term and short-term stays. Our community thrives in a tourism-based economy; we are also home to top-of-the-line, custom boat builders; commercial fishing operations; light industrial manufacturers and more.

As the largest business organization in the area, and the only Chamber in the region accredited by the Carolina Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives

Karen S. Brown
President & CEO
Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce

(CACCE), the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce is proud to represent our region including Dare County, Currituck County and Ocracoke Island. In October of 2016 the Outer Banks Chamber was named Outstanding Chamber of the Year (700+ member category) for its efforts to bring opportunities for business success to the region.

We hope you enjoy this annual issue of the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce publication, Outer Banks Experience, showcasing the OBX lifestyle. This magazine highlights the beautiful region we call home, including a thriving economy, top-ranked education system, accessible healthcare, bountiful history and recreational opportunities. In addition, a complete directory of our member businesses is included. We hope you will utilize this directory when searching for products and services in our area.

Our mission — Empower the Outer Banks business community by promoting and developing economic prosperity — reflects our commitment to the business community. The Outer Banks Chamber works hard to connect businesses to resources available to assist them in their planning while offering programs and services that encourage business growth and success. With the introduction in 2018 of the OBXMADE brand, we hope to continue to highlight and showcase our local small businesses and entrepreneurs.

Welcome to our piece of paradise.

Warm Regards,

Karen S. Brown, President & CEO

TIME-TESTED OBX BIZ

Thriving in retail, real estate, restaurants

Like the tides of the Atlantic Ocean, business ebbs and flows through the Outer Banks. High season during the summer delivers droves of tourists which help support some of the chamber's oldest members, generation after generation.

RETAIL GRAY-TS SINCE '48

This year, Gray's Department Store has a lot to celebrate. The company has been a member of the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce for 40 years and will celebrate 71 years of business in 2019.

Julie Gray is one of the owners of Gray's Department Store. She runs the store with two of her four brothers, Larry and Ronnie. The family-operated business sells quality apparel for men and women, along with accessories, jewelry and gifts.

In 1948, Julie Gray's parents opened their first location in Nags Head, but it wasn't until over 30 years later that they decided to branch out and expand.

While Julie Gray's parents retired from the business in 1993, she and her brothers have continued the family legacy. Gray's Department Store has been a member of the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce since 1979. Julie Gray's father initially joined the chamber to spark business along the Outer Banks area.

In 2000, the chamber presented Gray's Department Store with its Small Business of the Year Award.

"We wanted to be part of community opportunities with the chamber," Julie Gray said. "I think they're doing a great job."

The success of the business would not be possible without its devoted customers, she said.

"(We) see some of them come in the store, and not just the first generation but the second and third generations of families come in," Julie Gray said.

Gray said she hopes that each customer who walks through the doors feels like they are helped and appreciated. While the business specializes in clothing and accessories, staff are more than happy to provide dining and recreational suggestions for tourists and locals alike.

"We consider ourselves information booths — people who want to know of a good seafood restaurant or things to do especially along the Outer Banks," she said.

Gray said she and her family are grateful for the continuous support from the Outer Banks community.

"It is absolutely extraordinary that we are celebrating 71 years this year," she said. "This is the pride of all of our staff who have been with us — the incredible managers we've had. ... We've had people who have been here for 35 years, almost 40 years. It's really amazing." ● welcome make you feel less like an outsider and more like a part of the Outer Banks community.

According to the company's history, owner Joe Lamb Jr. himself says this sense of community is something he remembers fondly about growing up in the area. "There were many times I would sit on the front porch and never see or hear a car," Lamb Jr. says on the business' website. "There was one road, what is now the beach road. Everyone knew each other."

That sense of family and tradition can be felt throughout the entire company. More than half of JLL's 30-plus employees have been with the company for at least 10 years, and that feeling of pride with a personal touch radiates out to others.

Last but far from least, the company practically beams over its historic support for the community. From active participation in the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce to supporting local Dale County Schools, the Roanoke Island Historical Association, the Outer Banks Women's Club, the Surf Riders Foundation and much more, Joe Lamb Jr. & Associates is the gold standard for local business serving the community. • By Jamie Rogers

SEAFOOD AND HISTORY, A STAPLE IN NAGS HEAD SINCE THE '30S

What started out as an opportunity for some local fisherman to make some extra cash has turned into a longtime staple of Dare County. For the past 82 years, Sam and Omie's has made its mark on both locals and tourists alike.

Sam and Omie's originally started out as Sambo's, a small restaurant on the beach that was owned by Sambo Tillet. Tillet, a commercial fisherman, realized he could take out recreational fishermen for crabs, shrimp, oysters and other delicacies that weren't accessible to them recreationally.

In the mid-'50s, the land that the restaurant was on was purchased by the National Park Service. Eventually, the marina was leased to Tillet's brother, Toby, who started the Oregon Inlet Fishing Center. Around the same time, the name of the restaurant was changed to include Tillet's son, Omie.

After many years, the restaurant was sold to another local, and somewhere down the line, it was sold to Carole Sykes, the current manager and owner of Sam and Omie's. She has been working at the restaurant since 1984.

Sykes says that one of the reasons why she loves her job so much is the familiar faces she sees every day. Many employees at Sam and Omie's have been there for decades. Some have been there for as long as Sykes has, and a few for even longer. While Sykes isn't related to the Tillet brothers, she still works with their family; their granddaughter is one of the managers at the restaurant.

Even though management has changed over the years, Sykes says the breakfast items, like "Trixie's Pick" and "the McOmie" have been the same from the very beginning. The restaurant continues to carry on traditions, like spaghetti nights on Tuesdays or prime rib every Thursday. Sykes says some of their routines have been that way for over 30 years.

Sam and Omie's joined the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce in 1988. Sykes says she appreciates how easy the chamber is to get in touch with.

Sam and Omie's membership in the Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce began in 1988.

“(The Outer Banks Chamber of Commerce) does a lot of good for the community here, not just restaurant-wise but in all different aspects of the industry here. Whether it be hotels, tourism, restaurant people, locals, tourists — they are a good information spot for a lot of people,” Sykes said. “They are very involved in the broader picture of the community here — and not just for locals.” • By Samantha Davenport

DECADES AND DECADES OF TRADITIONAL FOOD THAT FEELS LIKE HOME

Owens’ Restaurant matriarch Clara Mae was born in 1946, the year her parents decided to move their restaurant business from Roanoke Island to Nags Head. Back then, everyone thought Bob Owens and his wife, Clara, were out of their minds for opening up shop on the desolate strip of land in South Nags Head. This was before the Outer Banks was a vacation destination when most outside business came from fishing charters and hunting parties.

But the Owenses were visionaries and had a keen sense for what was on the horizon. They were to be at the forefront of new development on the beach, and not only is their business still going strong today, but the Owenses operate it with the same integrity and attention to detail that’s been the foundation of the business for seven decades.

Clara Mae remembers her father going to Engelhard for eggs, to Currituck for fresh produce and to the ocean right across from his restaurant for fish. Owens’ was doing locally sourced food before “locally sourced” became a buzzword; back when local food was the only thing available to the few restaurateurs on the Outer Banks. And that tradition of authentic, native food is still a hallmark of Owens’ today.

Owens’ is the oldest restaurant in North Carolina that’s been in the same family at the same location since it opened. The fourth generation is beginning to take the reins on many of the daily operations, brought up by aunts and uncles, parents, grandparents and even patrons. Owens’ is a family restaurant in every sense of the word.

“People have said that coming here is like coming home, and I feel like that’s the best compliment you could get,” Clara Mae said with a smile.

View Owens’ outstanding display of original memorabilia consisting of logbooks, photographs and other historic artifacts of the U.S. Lifesaving Service, a forerunner of today’s U.S. Coast Guard. The Outer Banks is famous for its history of shipwrecks, and the men of the U.S. Lifesaving Service knew no end to dedication in rescuing the survivors of the many shipwrecks of the “Graveyard of the Atlantic.”

ALLIGATOR RIVER NATIONAL WILDLIFE/ PEA ISLAND NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGES

Nature is never far away in the Outer Banks, and the massive Alligator River National Wildlife Refuge presents a perfect blend of conservation and education with guided tours, virtual tour guides and more. See black bear, wild turkeys, waterfowl and maybe a red wolf on the Wildlife Drive. The Creef Cut Wildlife Trail, Sandy Ridge Wildlife Trail and Milltail Paddling Trail all offer unique experiences, including a chance to observe the usually shy American alligator. Opportunities abound for hiking, fishing, hunting, photography and geocaches. Bring the binoculars to enjoy the birding at Pea Island Wildlife Refuge. Nestled in the north end of Hatteras Island, the refuge boasts more than 365 bird species that call the spot home, as well as mammals, reptiles and amphibians cohabitating in the wildlands. Both refuges are open sunup to sundown year-round.

CHICAMACOMICO LIFE-SAVING STATION

A maritime site like no other, this former station of the U.S. Life-Saving Service and the U.S. Coast Guard keeps the tradition of their service alive. This historic station in Rodanthe, built in 1874, was home to North Carolina's first trained, shore-based rescue responders; it remained in operation until 1954. Today, the Chicamacomico Life-Saving Station is one of the most unique museum sites on the East coast, featuring two original stations and assorted period rescue equipment. The complex is carefully preserved and protected by the Chicamacomico Historical Association, and the grounds make for a beautiful backdrop for special events, weddings, barbecues and more.

ELIZABETHAN GARDENS

Designed as a tribute to the first English colonists to the New World, the Elizabethan Gardens contains more than 500 species of plants, including native growth and flora from around the globe. This 10-acre paradise, inside the Fort Raleigh National Historic site in Manteo, changes its flower displays seasonally, presenting bursts of color throughout the year. The garden is especially known for its collection of camellias with more than 85 varieties of the blooming beauties.

GRAVEYARD OF THE ATLANTIC MUSEUM

Come aboard this maritime museum on Hatteras Island and hear fascinating tales of shipwrecks, piracy, recovered artifacts and more. Drawing its name from the infamous waters off the Outer Banks, the Graveyard of the Atlantic Museum features historic collections, educational programming, special exhibits and events. The museum and its programs are free, year-round, unless otherwise noted.

‘THE LOST COLONY’

First staged in 1937, “The Lost Colony” is the nation’s longest-running outdoor symphonic drama, entertaining more than 3 million people since its debut. The enormous production is staged in an outdoor theater in Manteo on the site of the original Roanoke Colony. More than 130 actors, technicians and volunteers bring this play about the mysterious settlement to life through heartbreaking drama, authentic costumes, lively dancing and epic battles.

NORTH CAROLINA AQUARIUM ON ROANOKE ISLAND

Get up close and underwater with local creatures large and small at the Outer Banks at the North Carolina Aquarium on Roanoke Island. A 285,000-gallon exhibit features the largest collection of sharks in the state, and visitors have a chance to interact with scuba divers, stingrays and more. Don’t leave without learning about the recovery efforts at the Sea Turtle Assistance and Rehabilitation (STAR) Center. Kids can discover more throughout the summer at special camps.

ROANOKE ISLAND FESTIVAL PARK

Get ready to rewind in time to 1585 when the first English settlers arrived in the Outer Banks. The Roanoke Island Festival Park brings history to life on its 25 acres through a museum, settlement town and costumed interpreters. The beautiful — and seaworthy — Elizabeth II ship helps demonstrate how the first settlers lived, worked and played on Roanoke Island. The park also serves as a venue for concerts, events and weddings in the indoor theater or outdoor waterfront pavilion.

WANCHESE SEAFOOD INDUSTRIAL PARK

Located on the south end of Roanoke Island, the Wanchese Seafood Industrial Park helps promote fishing and other marine industries which are vital to the Outer Banks. You can find fresh and frozen, wholesale and retail seafood for sale throughout the 53-acre complex, which is also home to charter services and boat-building, marina and supply-chain businesses.

WHALEHEAD IN HISTORIC COROLLA

With its bright yellow exterior, copper roof and green lawns, Whalehead mansion is a colorful star on the National Register of Historic Places. Nearly every inch of the home has been restored to the way it looked when Edward Collings Knight Jr. and his wife, Marie Louise, first opened the doors as a lavish hunting retreat in 1925. Today, the grounds and home are open for tours. Are the haunting tales of mysterious scents and cries to be believed? Visit during a special ghost tour and decide for yourself.

WILD HORSE ADVENTURE TOURS

Perennially at the top of TripAdvisor's list of best things to do in the Outer Banks, Wild Horse Adventure Tours is an incredible experience. Take an unforgettable ride in an open-air Hummer along area beaches in search of wild mustangs in their natural environment. Seasoned guides explain the history and ecology of the region as you observe these beautiful creatures, descended from the stock of early Spanish explorers.

WRIGHT BROTHERS NATIONAL MEMORIAL

Visit the historic site where Orville and Wilbur Wright's dreams and hard work paid off in the first sustained, powered flight in a heavier-than-air machine. A 60-foot granite monument and other markers in this national park pay homage to the innovative brothers, who chose this area in Kill Devil Hills for its steady winds and relative privacy at the turn of the 20th century. A visitor center features exhibits on the brothers' work over the years, artifacts from the original 1903 Wright Flyer, and reproductions of the 1903 flyer and 1902 glider. ● By Jamie Rogers

Charms of THE COAST

LIGHTHOUSES BOAST UNFORGETTABLE EXPERIENCE

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE

The Outer Banks is home to sandy beaches, breathtaking sunsets, friendly residents and tourists, as well as historic lighthouses. These beacons of light have become a part of the islands' identity and a huge draw for the tourism industry.

CAPE HATTERAS LIGHTHOUSE

46368 LIGHTHOUSE ROAD, BUXTON, NC 27920
252-995-4474

There is not a better known landmark on the Outer Banks than the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse. Its black and white spiral pattern welcomes guests frequenting the Cape Hatteras National Seashore. Climbs are available the third Friday of every month, beginning in April and going to Columbus Day. The climbs are self paced and boast unmatched views from atop the tallest brick lighthouse in North America.

BODIE ISLAND LIGHTHOUSE

8210 BODIE ISLAND LIGHTHOUSE ROAD,
NAGS HEAD, NC 27959
252-475-9501

Another well-known beacon is the Bodie Island Lighthouse. The structure was originally built in 1847 but was rebuilt in 1859 just to have Confederate soldiers blow it up during the Civil War. The lighthouse that stands today was erected in 1872 on the banks of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore. For those seeking the full Bodie Island experience, climb to the top for an unbelievable vista. The lighthouse is open from the third Friday in April through Columbus Day.

CURRITUCK BEACH LIGHTHOUSE

1101 COROLLA VILLAGE ROAD, COROLLA, NC 27927 • 252-453-4939

Nestled in historic Corolla Village, the Currituck Beach Lighthouse stands 162 feet to the top of its roof. While the outside of the red brick lighthouse is a beautiful experience in its own right, the real adventure begins inside. Visitors are welcome to climb the winding staircase at their leisure, which contains 220 steps. The lighthouse opens for the season in mid-March.

OCRACOKE ISLAND LIGHTHOUSE

360 LIGHTHOUSE ROAD, OCRACOKE, NC 27960 • 252-928-6711

Located on the Cape Hatteras National Seashore too, the Ocracoke Island Lighthouse is the oldest one in operation in North Carolina. It is also the second oldest in the United States. Standing only 75 feet tall, it is by far the smallest lighthouse on the Outer Banks. While the lighthouse is not open to climbers, it is perfect for a photo opp. The lighthouse is accessible to visitors year-round.

ROANOKE MARSHES LIGHTHOUSE

END OF THE PIER ON MANTEO WATERFRONT, MANTEO, NC 27954
252-475-1750

Unlike other beacons of light on the Outer Banks, the Roanoke Marshes Lighthouse is an exquisite screwpile structure. As the fourth incarnation of the lighthouse, this site complements the island's maritime past. Since it is location at the end of the pier on the Manteo Waterfront, it boasts the perfect opportunity to take in the area's vibrant natural beauty. The interior is open to visitors and houses exhibits. It is also open during warm weather months, from Tuesday through Saturday. ● By Sarah Lancaster

OBX IS PET FRIENDLY!

Regulations throughout Dare and Currituck counties keep people and pets safe.

SIT, STAY AWHILE IN OBX

Many folks count their pet as a cherished member of the family. And just as you wouldn't leave a loved one behind when you go out for entertainment or on vacation, there's no need to leave your dog (or cat) at home when you're enjoying all the Outer Banks has to offer.

Though pets of all kinds call the region their home, sweet home, there's plenty of room and board for visitors. While searching for vacation lodging, look for rooms or rentals that are pet-friendly; many online search engines and property management companies provide this option. In a pinch, boarding services can handle your pet if they're prohibited where you'll be staying.

Once you and your pet are here, you can treat your best friend to the same kind R&R you'd enjoy. Pet resorts offer grooming, playtime, treats and more, while pet sitters or doggie daycare can handle all the necessities if you're planning an all-day outing, such as a fishing trip or lengthy nature hike.

In the Outer Banks, one place both pets and their humans love is the beach. Knowing official regulations throughout Dare and Currituck counties will go a long way toward maintaining safety for yourself and your animals in public spaces.

Duck welcomes dogs like furry friends. If collared with proper identification and proof of rabies vaccination, dogs are welcome on a 10-foot lead throughout town, including the boardwalk, Duck Trail and Duck Town Park. The trail and park both have specially designed, dog-friendly water fountains. Year-round, dogs may be on the beach without a leash as long as they remain under the supervision of their owner and return when commanded.

In Southern Shores, dogs must be on a leash no longer than 10 feet at all times when off personal property, and handlers must dispose of pet waste. Dogs are only allowed on Southern Shores beaches between 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. from May 15 to Sept. 15.

Dogs can play nice with Kitty Hawk, where they're permitted on public beaches. From the Friday before Memorial Day until the day after Labor Day between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. dogs must be on a leash not exceeding 6 feet. At all other times during the year, dogs must be restrained on a leash not exceeding 12 feet. Dogs may be taken off leash only if they will not disturb other people on the beach. Unleashed dogs must be controlled by the handler, who must remain within 30 feet of the dog at all times. Owners/handlers must have a leash with them always; they are also responsible for and must remove feces at all times. Violation of any of these rules shall be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $50.

Dogs are prohibited from beaches in Kill Devil Hills from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. between Memorial Day and Labor Day, unless they are service dogs for people with disabilities. Leashes are required and should not exceed 10 feet. In Nags Head, dogs are allowed on the beach year-round as long as they are restrained by a leash not exceeding 10 feet. A dog park at Satterfield Landing gives Fido and Fluffy room to play in separate large and small dog areas.

While in Manteo, dogs should be on leashes 6 feet in length or less. Pets are welcome at the seashore of Cape Hatteras National Park, but they must be on a 6-foot leash at all times. However, pets are not allowed on designated swim beaches or in the park's buildings. The Roanoke Island Dog Park is open to all residents and visitors of Dare County. To get the key code for entrance, owners must complete an application and provide a rabies certificate to the Dare County Parks and Recreation office at 1000 Wescott Park Road, Manteo.

For Corolla and the beaches of Currituck County, pets are required to be on a leash at all times.

While regulations may seem to put a damper on sun and fun, there are real reasons to keep your pet safe, especially on local beaches. Be mindful of hot surfaces like sand and sidewalks that can burn your pooch's paws. Dogs love to dig and smell, but inhaling or consuming too much sand can be dangerous for their bowels. Animals visiting the beach for the first time may not understand that seawater can make them sick; always provide fresh water so they don't get dehydrated whether frolicking or just relaxing. Other beach dangers include sand spurs, fish hooks and jellyfish. And yes, dogs can get sunburned! Cover vulnerable spots such as ears and muzzles with baby sunblock, and keep dogs with light skin or little-to-no hair out of the harsh sun altogether.

North Carolina's Outer Banks offers more fun than you and your fur baby can shake a fetchin' stick at. If you've made the area your forever home, consider giving that same gift to a pet at one of the local shelters. The Outer Banks SPCA, through the Dare County Animal Shelter, aims to place dogs and cats with owners that will treat them just like family — wherever life may take them. ● By Jamie Rogers

YOUTH RECREATION PROGRAMS SUCCEED THROUGH DEDICATION FROM PARKS AND RECREATIONS STAFF

Keeping a community active is a team effort. Aside from organizing structured youth activities and competitive sports, county Parks and Recreation divisions are tasked with executing programs and maintaining multiple facilities throughout the year. So, what exactly does it take to provide a healthy outlet for thousands of kids? Currituck County Director of Parks and Recreation Jason Weeks says a diverse list of activities is extremely important. Likewise, Dare County Public Service Director Tim White thinks that affordability also factors into youth participation in activities.

“There is very little down time in our youth program,” Weeks says. “We always make sure there is something for kids to do year-round.”

“We make a huge effort to keep our activities affordable,” White says, “especially activities like dance classes that would be much more expensive at a private studio.”

Both counties offer a long list of traditional competitive team sports depending on the time of year: soccer, football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, gymnastics and more. Currituck also offers a cheerleading program that runs in conjunction with the football league, financially supplements a nonprofit tennis program and is exploring the possibility of starting a field hockey program. Dare County also sprinkles in several non-competitive camps into their lineup like drama, dance, etiquette, paddle board, kayaking and surfing. In many cases, the competitive leagues play teams from other counties, which also encourages participation.

Youth Programs provided by Currituck and Dare County Parks and Recreations divisions serve local youth with a wide range of competitive sports and non-competitive activities.

Handling the day-to-day operations requires a mix of Parks and Recreation staff, private associations and volunteers. Programs take place at various locations in their respective counties. White says that Dare County uses three main facilities that include gymnasiums, softball and football fields, and tennis courts, in addition to off-site soccer fields and school facilities.

Currituck County also has a number of full- and part-time employees managing their community center/YMCA, school facilities and off-site locations. Likewise, Weeks says they rely heavily on volunteers to assist with team organization and program implementation.

The use of multiple locations for such an extensive list of activities often increases the commute time in both counties, especially in the summer when the population doubles, sometimes even triples. Both White and Weeks says it isn't uncommon for families to drive an hour or more. However, the benefits outweigh the challenges, which is the reason both counties work hard to maintain a thriving program.

"One of the biggest benefits nobody likes to talk about is juvenile crime prevention in our county," Weeks says. "Small rural counties don't have a lot of opportunities to do things, which can lead to drug and alcohol use. Our youth programs give them a positive structured activity to do instead."

Weeks also sees youth programs as one way to decrease "screen time" and combat a growing obesity epidemic. He sees a real struggle to keep 13- to 15-year-old kids engaged in youth programs. That is the point when they see teens become more interested in socializing via social media versus socializing in real life.

"Technology is killing us," he says.

Regardless youth programs provide benefits to younger children. White says children learn sportsmanship, teamwork and develop greater self-esteem. Often recreation centers provide a safe place where kids can just hang out until a parent, guardian or older sibling gets home. All of this results in long-lasting friendships, particularly among kids who start programs as 6 year olds and continue into their teen years.

"They go through programs together regardless if they go to different schools or live in different neighborhoods," White says. "It widens their circle of friends and increases their level of maturity."

The future of youth programs for both Currituck and Dare counties will include expansion in eco-tourism also known as passive recreation, which are both ways to describe non-athletic youth activities in the out-of-doors. This could include trail development, building wetland-themed parks, and increasing kayaking, canoeing and camping platforms on marshes. Likewise, both counties will continue to seek funding for additional facilities that allow them to incorporate additional sports programs such as swimming. ● By Rachael Kvapil

Youth programs are a great way to decrease "screen time" and keep kids active.

Park and Recreation staff work hard to keep youth programs affordable to encourage maximum participation. Many activities such as dance and drama classes are significantly more expensive when taught by private studios.

DARE COUNTY SPECIAL OLYMPICS MAKES A DIFFERENCE IN ATHLETES' LIVES

Every Special Olympics athlete follows the oath “Let me win. But if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt.” For the past decade, Dare County, North Carolina, has successfully provided Special Olympics athletes of all ages with the opportunity to live that oath through a variety of sporting competitions. Yet, there is one thing that could take this program to a whole other level: more volunteer coaches. Dare County

Special Olympics co-organizers Kathleen Morgan and Kelli Miller respond in unison that future growth of the program will require more assistance from volunteers willing to work with athletes to develop competitive skills and strategy.

“All our coaches are volunteers,” Miller says. “We are constantly recruiting.”

Morgan adds, “Once a volunteer clears their background check, they are given a training session about teaching a specific

Organizers say the benefits to athletes include increased self-esteem, community involvement and strong friendships.

Athletes who participate in the Special Olympics frequently challenge themselves in other aspects of their lives, including academics and professional development.

sport and working with athletes.”

Special Olympics is a global movement to foster inclusion of all people through the power of sports. Special Olympics athletes are individuals with an intellectual disability that has manifested before age 18 and renders the individual challenged in at least two areas of daily functioning. The causes of the intellectual disability in athletes are varied. Athletes who participate fully in Special Olympics must be at least 8 years old, and there are no upper age limits. In addition to intellectual disability, athletes also may have one or more additional disabilities (e.g., hearing or vision impairments, spina bifida).

The statewide organization, Special Olympics North Carolina (SONC), provides a structure for local communities like Dare County to organize and fundraise for year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports. Morgan says approximately 83 athletes in Dare County compete in aquatics, basketball, bowling, cheerleading, equestrian, track and field and tennis skills.

“Athletes train for each sport as a team for about eight weeks before competing,” says Morgan. “And just like any other qualifying sports, they compete with other Special Olympic athletes from nearby counties.”

Nearly 100 accredited local programs provide training and competition for 40,000 children and adults in North Carolina, which means competition increases at the state level and even more so for those who go onto regionals and even the world competition. However, winning medals isn't the only way to measure the success of Special Olympic athletes. Miller says training for events allows athletes to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage and develop friendships.

“It is great watching these athletes progress,” Miller says. “They start off barely able to complete a training session, and suddenly they are ready to take on several events.”

Morgan adds that many athletes have gone on to succeed in areas outside of the sports arena because of the confidence gained through Special Olympics competitions.

“We were at the NC State dorms when a swimmer told me he wanted to go to college. He started off as a child with autism learning to swim, who gained incredible self-esteem at state games, and is now graduating with an Associates from the College of Albemarle. He is even talking about a taking on a four-year degree!”

Both Morgan and Miller would like to grow the program to include training and competition for children under 8, which would require additional fundraising and the recruitment of additional volunteer coaches. To learn more about volunteering with the Dare County Special Olympics, contact Kathleen Morgan and Kelli Miller at dare@sonc.net.

● By Rachael Kvapil

The Dare County Special Olympics is one of 100 accredited local programs that is part of the Special Olympics North Carolina (SONC) network. SONC is in turn part of the Special Olympics global organization established in 1968.

Athletes from several counties compete to qualify for state, regional, national and global placement in a variety of Olympic-type sports.

Shopping

FROM
TO
SUN DOWN

There's no place like the Outer Banks when it comes to a one-of-a-kind shopping experience. The area has a little bit of everything — from upscale brand outlets to stylish independent boutiques to wine and coffee and other treats. Morning, noon and night, you're sure to find something to bring the flavor and flair of the region into your life and home.

Get your day going with gourmet beverages and a great read at Duck's Cottage Coffee & Books. Housed in a historic hunting cottage on the pond at the Waterfront Shops, the business has been serving up books and brews since 2002. Fresh coffee drinks are made from small-batch artisanal beans; try the cottage's specialty espresso drinks, including the Nutty Duck, Mucky Duck and the Swan. Pair that with a choice of pastry, biscotti and more. A small but meticulously curated inventory of publications includes fiction and nonfiction best sellers, cookbooks, childrens and young adult titles, and a solid selection of East Coast and local newspapers as well as other periodicals. An additional location, Downtown Books on Roanoke Island, offers a wider selection of published titles. The store hosts a busy schedule of author-signing events, classes and more and is a staunch supporter of Dare County Schools.

Now that you're caffeinated and motivated, you can make it a day of shopping at The Waterfront Shops in Duck. The eclectic mix of more than 27 boutiques, restaurants and more along the shores of Currituck Sound is perfect for exploring. From art galleries to candy shops to real estate agents, the Waterfront complex offers something — including many OBXMADE items — for everyone.

This shopping oasis isn't just for people. The waterfront boardwalk is perfect for sunny-day strolling and features a pier that accommodate boats. Wildlife such as herons, egrets, turtles and fish make their home near the area and are common sights. Being so close to nature will likely inspire you to step into leisure wear at Zen & Zip, take a class at Village Yoga or dip deeper with Coastal Kayak and Corolla Outback Adventure.

All that walking will work up an appetite that you can wrangle at Costal Cantina, Blue Point Bar and Grill or Sunset Ice Cream & Cappuccino, just to name a few. Take home some Outer Banks Olive Oil for later.

Ready to add some style to your schedule? Shay Leslie Boutique in Kitty Hawk has women's fashions for day, desk, dinner and party dressing. Owner Kathy Munden began the boutique in 1994 in Elizabeth City but calls the relocation to the Outer Banks a "great decision." Today the boutique carries a wide selection of women's clothes, shoes and accessories in a spectrum of sizes.

With a flair for style and knack for the perfect accessories, Munden is happy to help customers put their best foot forward.

"I love the relationships I cultivate with my customers," she said. "I offer personal service, complimentary alterations, and am always honest in my opinion."

Now that you've spiced up your wardrobe, it's time to heat up the kitchen. Island Spice & Wine in Avon is the must-stop shop for — but, of course — spices and wines. Browse amid the intoxicating aromas of hard-to-find spices, specialty sauces, imported olives and vinegars, cheeses, sweets, coffee, tea and other gourmet snacks. Cookbooks and kitchen-related tools help whip up the fun. And with a selection of wines from around the world, you're sure to find just the right vintage to pair with the flavors you'll be creating. Before you leave, grab a gift basket for a friend or choose one of The Outer Banks jellies, an OBXMADE item exclusive to the store, for yourself.

As your shopping journey continues, it will be hard to miss the hot cherry pink exterior of Miss Lizzie's, a family-owned boutique in Kitty Hawk. Bringing colorful and creative style to the Outer Banks since 2001, Miss Lizzie's features fashion-forward clothing, fantastic shoes and fun accessories to complement any outfit. Labels include Adore, Boho Chic, Alberto Makali, Andria Lieu, Curio, Pure Sweaters, Lior, Tribal and more. From sweaters and jeans to athletic apparel to dresses and jewelry, the hand-picked offerings at Miss Lizzie's are always fresh.

Take the shop-till-you-drop mantra to heart at Outlets Nags Head (formerly Tanger Outlets). For lower prices on higher-end products, you can't beat the bargains from the big-name stores which include American Eagle, Banana Republic, Eddie Bauer, Gap, J. Crew, Michael Kors, Nautica, Polo Ralph Lauren, Talbots, Wilsons Leather and more. From kitchenware to kids clothes, fish lures to flip-flops, you'll need extra arms to carry all the bargains. Visit the Outlet's website for online announcements of special sale events.

After a full day shopping amid the Outer Banks shores and sun, a comfy bedroom will provide a restorative retreat. Make one last stop in Manteo at Sleeping In Ltd. for luxurious linens, bath and body products, home décor, jewelry, handbags, etc.

"At Sleeping In Ltd. you will enjoy a unique and fun shopping experience, complete with a diverse selection of fashion apparel, sleepwear, stylish accessories and more," said owner Ruth Overman. "Come see what we are all about."

With brands such as Lilly Pulitzer, Pine Cone Hill and p.jamas, you'll definitely find a piece of calm to call your own. The boutique also carries an extensive collection of beautiful Vera Bradley bags — perfect for your next day's adventure. • By Jamie Rogers

GROWING HEALTHCARE ON THE OUTER BANKS

Whether you're on the first day of vacation or you've lived in the OBX your whole life, it's best to know your options for medical care before you need them. Centrally located in Nags Head, The Outer Banks Hospital (TOBH) is a full-service community hospital offering a wide range of inpatient and outpatient treatments. Designed to meet the needs of the coastal community as well as the waves of visitors during the summer months, the hospital's mission is to enhance the quality of life for the residents and visitors of Dare County and the surrounding region by promoting wellness and providing the highest-quality healthcare services.

Born of a partnership between Vidant Health and Chesapeake Regional Healthcare in 2002, TOBH is a provider of Medicare and Medicaid programs and is accredited by the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations, the College of American Pathologists, and the American College of Radiology. Its cancer-care program is accredited by the Commission on Cancer of the American College of Surgeons and includes medical oncology, chemotherapy, radiation therapy, and nurse navigation.

TOBH's reach extends from north to south with the Outer Banks Medical Group (an affiliate of the hospital) and includes four primary care and four specialty practices (Outer Banks General Surgery, Outer Banks Ear Nose & Throat, Outer Banks Orthopedics and Sports Medicine and Outer Banks Women's Care). two urgent care centers. In January of this year, the northern TOBH Urgent Care Center relocated from The Marketplace in Southern Shores to a new facility at Milepost 1.5 on the Bypass in Kitty Hawk. The new building offers increased practice space, more providers, and improved patient flow. The TOBH Urgent Care Center joined Outer Banks Ear Nose & Throat, which was the first practice to open on the north medical campus back in 2016. On the heels of the TOBH Urgent Care Center's reopening, in early May, Outer Banks Family Medicine also moved from The Marketplace in Southern Shores in early May right next to the ENT practice.

CONTINUING TO GROW HEALTHCARE FOR THE COMMUNITY

Access to care is ever-changing, and evaluating it is a work in progress. The Outer Banks Hospital and Medical Group continually assess the current and long-term needs of our community.

In recent years, the hospital opened a brand-new, state-of-the-art rehabilitation center in the northeast corner of the campus to increase space and the number of therapists. Services include physical, occupational, speech, and balance therapies along with a list of specially focused therapies.

Late in 2018, The Center for Healthy Living came to life in the hospital's Medical Office Building. The center specializes in helping individuals reach their health and well-being goals with a team trained to offer personalized care and encouragement in a positive, inspiring setting.

The hospital's community outreach efforts address the findings of the community health needs assessment. Based on priorities determined by the assessment, the outreach team organizes and implements free events, screenings, and education sessions in addition to sponsoring various nonprofit programs. The Health Coach, a 52-foot clinic on wheels funded by the hospital's Development Council, makes 45 to 50 appearances a year, bringing free wellness screens, A1C checks, skin checks, blood pressure checks, FIT kits, and flu vaccines across the Outer Banks from Corolla to Ocracoke and Currituck to Manteo. Many of the participants are living in rural parts of Dare County, where access to health services can be a challenge.

"We're most proud of the impact we've made in this community when it comes to healthcare services," said Ronnie Sloan, FACHE, president of The Outer Banks Hospital. "Community members are able to access care locally today that wasn't available seven or eight years ago. People are more likely to get wellness prevention screenings if they can do it locally and conveniently. Due to the expansion of overall opportunities, patients can now stay local for high-quality care."

MORE SPECIALISTS COMING TO OBX

Residents looking for additional specialty healthcare will be glad to discover that Chesapeake Regional Medical Group will be joining the north medical campus with a fourth building that will serve as a multispecialty office where general surgeons, plastic surgeons, pulmonologists, and thoracic surgeons will rotate to share the new space.

The building, near the beach and TOBH Urgent Care Center, will comprise 2,132 square feet of light and airy medical offices plus a room for procedures, all intended to fit in with the beach vibe to help patients feel less stressed during their appointments, according to Christine Hustedt, director of outpatient services for Chesapeake Regional Healthcare. Planning began in November 2018, and the goal is to welcome patients to the Chesapeake Regional Medical Group Multispecialty Office by mid-summer, Hustedt said.

BUILDING BRIDGES TO BRIGHT FUTURE

OBX connects with new development

Out with the old and in with the new — bridges, that is.

Marc Basnight Bridge, a new 2.8-mile, $252 million span connecting Hatteras Island to the mainland, officially opened to vehicles in March. It replaced the Herbert C. Bonner Bridge that was still in use 25 years past its prime.

Linking North Carolina Highway 12, the new bridge is considerably higher and wider than its predecessor, towering 90 feet above Oregon Inlet at its highest point.

It's like some kind of Disney World ride," said Joe Thompson, entrepreneur and resident of the island. "You get on top and stay there for a half mile. It's absolutely stunning."

Another feature of Basnight Bridge is that all of its seven spans are navigable, Thompson said. The Inlet has a channel that migrates naturally. Now, boats will be able to pass under the bridge wherever that channel is.

The Bonner Bridge won't entirely disappear. A 1,000-foot section at the south end will remain as a pedestrian walkway and popular fishing pier. The remainder of the bridge will be dismantled and used to build artificial reef sites along the North Carolina coast.

BONNER BRIDGE A LIFELINE FOR HATTERAS ISLAND

Officially opened in 1963, the Bonner Bridge connected the fragile barrier island communities of seven villages with the Northern Outer Banks. Local residents and vacationers from around the world could now access miles of sand beaches along the Cape Hatteras Seashore within minutes instead of a lengthy and weather-dependent ferry ride.

The Hatteras Seashore is America's first national seashore, attracting approximately 3 million visitors from around the world annually. The population of these islands often swells to more than 40,000 people during the summer months.

Road access to the island also plays an integral part for the safety and security of its approximately 5,000 residents, providing crucial hurricane and emergency evacuations as well as access for law enforcement vehicles.

Additionally, electrical, telephone and data lines run underneath the bridge, connecting Hatteras Island to the outside world.

NEW BRIDGE A BOOST TO LOCAL ECONOMY

Thompson said the condition of the old bridge was definitely a fly in the ointment for people wanting to invest in the area. Effects of the replacement bridge are most visible in new construction projects and an uptick in real estate purchases, he said.

Beth Midgett's family has called Hatteras Island's sandy shores home for at least three centuries.

The Midgett brothers opened their Hatteras Island real estate business in the 1960, paving the way for the hospitality and tourism industry.

As reservations operations manager, Beth Midgett and her family-owned business offer more than 500 Hatteras vacation homes for rent, according to a company statement.

"They knew that once people experienced the pristine beaches, world-class fishing and natural beauty this island had to offer, they would be back for more — and back they came, generation after generation," she said.

"To have stable dependable access to the area will be a huge boon to all business on Hatteras Island," she added. "There has been huge renewed interest in property and home sales."

A formal bridge dedication — naming the Marc Basnight Bridge in honor of the former North Carolina state senator took place in April. ● By Nancy Erickson

Making REALTY DREAMS Reality

O BX. Those three little letters represent home to some and dreamy summer vacations to others. Pristine beaches, a moderate climate, abundant fresh seafood and infinite outdoor activities are the draw of these barrier islands. Their pull is strong, and the Outer Banks is known to steal hearts and inspire realty dreams of second homes or even making a permanent move to this Carolina Coast.

Community support is strong for newcomers, and the quality of life is hard to match. Outer Banks has beautiful venues everywhere at which families can gather, and the area is positively pet-friendly.

The economy continues to thrive with an active Chamber of Commerce as a strong advocate for local businesses. Twelve well-established businesses championing the chamber's OBXMADE campaign, which is kicking off its second year in 2019 and promoting Outer Banks entrepreneurs worldwide.

A trusted real estate agent can help potential homebuyers sort through homes of all sizes and styles. Sun Realty's President Ali Breaux says buying an investment property to turn into a retirement abode is not uncommon among Outer Banks' long-term vacationers. "Vacation rentals help cover expenses, and they have the added benefit of family vacations in their own home."

Hatteras Realty says the increase in numbers and age of new residents is noticeable and welcome. "Our local joke is that you don't have to go to Elizabeth City to find a dentist anymore," Amy Helle, general manager of Hatteras Realty, said.

At SAGA Realty and Construction, buying or building a home is less about how many bedrooms and bathrooms a family needs and more about what the long-term goals and aspirations of the family are, while also contributing to the community.

"We use the analogy that OBX is a 100-mile-long cruise ship with two main points to get on and off the ship. Once you are on the ship, it's all about your experience: It's about where you stay (the homes), it's about what you do (the activities, amenities, etc.), it's about what you eat (the food scene)," Gupta continued. "We see ourselves as 'economic development' officers of the community. We want to help OBX grow in all sectors."

Kristen Constantineau, Resort Realty marketing manager said, "With home prices on the Outer Banks much more affordable compared to other vacation destinations, the opportunities to own your very own Outer Banks beach home are numerous — whether an investment property, a second/vacation home or a permanent year-round home on our sandy shores." ● By Rindi White and Sarah Lancaster

LEARN LIKE A LOCAL

Learning can be a lifelong adventure, one that will take you to new horizons both personally and professionally. The Outer Banks has a variety of opportunities for classes in higher education, career training and individual growth. Both the College of the Albemarle and the Coastal Studies Institute, part of East Carolina University's Outer Banks campus, offer programs to meet any level of adult learning.

College of the Albemarle is North Carolina's first comprehensive community college. Through the Dare County campus and the Roanoke Island campuses in Manteo, the college offers a spectrum of diploma and certificate programs.

At the Dare County campus, students can access COA's college transfer associate degree programs and general education courses. These general education courses enable students to transfer to a four-year university. The campus has a homey feel but with high-tech amenities such as multimedia classrooms, science labs and a campus library.

Tim Sweeney, Dean Dare Campus, said that the Dare County campus is thriving with the support of its Board of Trustees, county commissioners and community members. Dual enrollment numbers have increased from 166 students in spring 2018 to 246 students for spring 2019, he said. Dual enrolled students have a variety of classes to choose from and can graduate with a diploma or certificate from COA, while completing their classes in high school.

COA is continually evolving its programs to meet the needs of employers in Dare County. Programs cater to hospitality and tourism, culinary arts, nursing, professional crafts, language skills and more. In particular, classes for computer-aided drafting, machining, electrical systems and HVAC technology allow students to gain first-hand knowledge of residential and commercial projects from professionals with real experience.

"Welding Technology is another program that remains in demand, as companies along the beach have shared a need in experienced welders," Sweeney said. He added that the program is offered as a diploma or certificate, allowing options for new students or potential students who are already working in this field to add additional skills. "Partnerships with the North Carolina Ferry Division and the Department of Transportation have provided our students paid apprenticeships in the welding field while enrolled in their classes."

The campus of the Coastal Studies Institute, a multi-institutional research partnership on Roanoke Island, is composed of more than 200 acres of marshlands, wetlands and sound ecosystems. Completed in 2012, the facilities are doing their own part to be environmentally conscious, with LEED certification and multiple sustainability awards for its design.

The institute is working to develop new technologies

Another popular class in the Workforce Development and Continuing Education program is Introduction to Drones.

“The use of drones in real estate and commercial-based photography has increased tremendously in the last couple of years,” Sweeney said. “This class allows students to learn about the proper use of drones with consideration of FAA restrictions and weather factors, as well as the commercial outputting of film editing with still and video photography being used. Students have the opportunity to take the exam for certification, as well.”

At COA, teaching students the skills needed to be successful in gaining industry certification is all about “Transforming Lives of our Students,” Sweeney said. “Many students achieve their dreams of a wonderful career as they are exposed to a whole new world of possibilities.”

In the Outer Banks, land and water are so interconnected that it just seems natural to study the rich and diverse coastal ecosystem of the area.

The Coastal Studies Institute is a multi-institutional research and education partnership with University of North Carolina system. Located on the shores of Roanoke Island, the institute is uniquely situated to address topics that are critical to area residents. CSI research combines natural and social sciences to answer a variety of pressing coastal questions not only for the state, but by extension all of the U.S. eastern coastline.

“Our campus overlooks the second-largest estuarine system in the United States, is just hours from one of the largest ocean currents in the world and is steps from critical wetland habitat that helps support our coastal economy,” said Reide Corbett, executive director of the CSI and dean of Integrated Coastal Programs. “Because of its place and people, CSI emphasizes multidisciplinary coastal ocean science, and these concerns are not only locally and regionally significant but have international impacts and relevance.”

Graduate and undergraduate students at the institute are selected from five partner institutions. The institute is a leader in North Carolina for assessing renewable ocean energy resources off the coast, working with universities across the state to develop new technology that may harness that energy and considering the associated environmental implications.

Camps at the Coastal Studies Institute focus on STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math) topics as they teach children about local ecosystems.

that will cater to the specific needs of the Outer Banks and its residents.

“Our faculty and staff are actively engaged in projects like these because they truly care about the community they live and the future we have a hand in shaping,” Corbett said.

Learning isn’t limited to higher-ed students and researchers, though.

The institute is developing summer programming for adults and families. CSI hosts a public lecture series entitled, “Science on the Sound.” The monthly series highlights research on coastal topics and issues in northeastern North Carolina. These programs are broadcast live at the Institute and are streamed online at the CSI U-stream page. Kids can develop build a base of knowledge too, as the institute is proud of its strong partnerships with Dare County Schools. Summer day camps are offered for children 10 to 15 years old. Sessions combine STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math) education with fun, hands-on activities that engage campers with the local ecology. Students get to snorkel, kayak, collect species samples, examine plankton under a microscope and much more.

“As we continue to grow the Institution, we look forward to working with the community to provide more educational opportunities from primary and secondary education through adult programming for lifelong learners,” Corbett said. ● By Jamie Rogers

OFFERING A SHOUT-OUT TO Exceptional Educators

A teacher in Hyde County who helps special-needs students, a Currituck County educator helping students form healthy lifestyle habits and the Dare County Schools District Teacher of the Year are notable educators Outer Banks Experience is highlighting in this issue.

The first of those teachers, Patricia Scripture, works with children who have special physical, mental and emotional needs navigate those challenges to achieve their educational goals in Mattamuskeet Early College High School in Hyde County.

The second, Susan Buzzard, has transformed physical education classes at Currituck County High School, moving their focus from team sports toward fitness activities that students can incorporate into their daily lives as part of a healthy, sustainable lifestyle.

Last but not least is Chelsea Brantley, who is the media coordinator at Nags Head Elementary School. A 2018-19 Dare County Teacher of the Year, Brantley also earned the top district honor for her work that aims to inspire a life-long love of reading in all students.

Stephen Basnight, superintendent of Hyde County Schools, lauds Scripture's exemplary work ethic and devotion to her students, and principals she's worked with say she is knowledgeable about mental health and sensitive to home and school situations students may have.

Scripture helps with afterschool activities and clubs, colleague Melody Williams said, as well as attending IEP meetings and mentoring teachers interested in working with exceptional children.

"She is a silent leader demonstrating what it takes to be an effective teacher in the 21st century classroom," one of Hyde County's school principals said of Scripture. "Every challenge develops into an opportunity. She pushes potential dropouts to become high school graduates."

After considering the medical field as a career, Buzzard chose to become a Healthful Living educator because she wanted to help students learn to prevent "lifestyle diseases" — such as diabetes and high blood pressure — that are directly related to diet and sedentary habits. Buzzard redesigned physical education classes so students could learn activities they'd be able to use every day in their lives, unlike traditional team-sports activities. As a result, the school has seen a significant increase in participation rates of students in daily fitness-based activities.

As a school librarian, Brantley understands how all kinds of literacy can jumpstart limitless journeys for students.

"When students walk into her library, they are often transported to a magical place," said Keith Parker, digital communications and middle school director for Dare County Schools.

Brantley is noted for decorating the library to transform it into scenes from media that students are currently studying. And who knows — the next decorations in the library could be inspired by the students themselves. Brantley has been working with youngsters at Nags Head Elementary to publish their own first book, complete with beautiful, color illustrations of turtles.

Another recent project Brantley is proud of was a collaboration with NHES second-graders; their teacher, Deborah Hester; art teacher Cindy Wise; and educators from Jennette's Pier. Inspired by the "Caine's Arcade" story on YouTube, students constructed their own "Wave Riders Arcade," complete with functional arcade games made of cardboard and other upcycled materials. Grownups were invited to test their skills on the games at a special event.

But it's not all play for Brantley. Her experience includes years as a language arts teacher in Tennessee and as a children's librarian for the Manteo and Hatteras libraries.

"She aggressively applies for numerous local, state and national grants that support the educational program at her school," Parker said. "Whenever she is asked to do something, she jumps right in." ● By Tracy Kalytiak
