

Capitalism is an equalizer

There are almost a million ways unto making money on the internet. (Fast money)

You can make money through thinking. Companies today pay people for their business opinions and they implement it.

Utilize your thinking. Your thoughts. Leverage on that!

People get actual jobs and get paid monthly.

People learn skills and become entrepreneurs there by offering services to people that needs it. They know their "audience" they take it to the right people. People they know would like it and know the worth.

You can have all the money you want but without plan, investment, wisdom, experience, Enlightenment, studies, attending live concert, , and lot more, you will come back to the same pauperized person that you were. That's why it's one thing to have money and it's another to remain there and remain stable.

Act and think like a hunter. Watch other people that have been there before you. Do your background check on them. Carry out research on them and know people you are competing with.

Your thoughts would be "why would I want to carry out research on them" it's like spying on them or meddling in other people's business.

Yes. It's good to know their past experiences on profits and losses thereby you can be able to know their strengths and weaknesses. I am not saying you should look for how to spoil a company's name and reputation. No. You have to be strong in the area of the competitors' weakness and also be stronger in the area of their strength.

In conclusion

Money is what you need to secure your chance of being comfortable tomorrow. Please do not compare it religiously.

It's fun to have money. Money might seem to be everything. But it isn't. Do everything you can to develop yourself in every way you can.

"no knowledge is a waste" it's actually a very realistic phrase. Learn all you can.

Know all you can. Look at money for what it really is. Nothing but a legal tender. All these boils down to your thoughts and how you utilize it. Capitalism is an equalizer use it!
