

FOOD SCENE

NEWS | REVIEWS | TIPS | TRENDS

Chill Out

Stay cool this summer with a refreshing margarita ice pop.

BY ALEJANDRA SARAGOZA

S

Summertime often brings back memories of beloved childhood treats, from snow cones to Otter Pops. Now, you can feed your nostalgia with a refreshing adult twist on a childhood favorite.

Sloshee margarita ice pops offer a fun and convenient way to enjoy the popular tequila cocktail while keeping cool on a hot day. Handcrafted by Cold Cocked Beverages in Oakland, the treats contain 10 percent alcohol and four other ingredients: lime juice, cane sugar, purified water, and triple sec. The best part? They can be enjoyed anywhere, serving as playful additions to any summer shindig.

"It's like having a frozen margarita wherever, whenever," says co-owner Jennifer Chevalier. "[Sloshees] are easy to take with you, from the beach to the ballpark. They also have a good amount of alcohol and are more inconspicuous than a cocktail."

Order a Sloshee 10-pack online, or pick up one at Draeger's Market in Danville, or at Grand Perkins Market in Oakland. You can bring the booze-filled pops to the next gathering and get the party started, or just leave them in your freezer and hoard them for yourself—we won't judge. $14.99, sloshee.com.