

Your in-home infusion solution

myCubixx, your in-home infusion solution

Manage your infusion schedule in the comfort of your own home. ASD Healthcare's easy-to-use myCubixx helps keep treatments on track, ensures that you have product at your fingertips, and takes the headache out of compliance reporting. This solution is a must-have for people with bleeding disorders and their caregivers who want an easier, quicker, hassle-free infusion experience.

Easy and reliable solution

Managing your infusions is now easier and more reliable than ever. ASD Healthcare's myCubixx keeps your infusion plan on track, manages reporting data, ensures that you have a reliable supply of product, and most important of all, provides you peace of mind.

At only 1.7 cubic feet, this in-home solution fits easily in the kitchen, bedroom, under your desk—wherever is most convenient for infusions. The refrigerator holds about a month worth of product, with access control, ensuring that only the patient or caregiver can access treatment.

Bleed logs can be accessed in your online Patient Portal. Transmit this information to your provider, caregiver, or store this information for personal medical history purposes.

Choose your affected target joints

- > Up to three target joints may be chosen at a time. Simply touch the affected joints and the system captures your bleed information—without you having to record anything.
- > Via automated messaging from myCubixx, your patient care coordinator can be made aware of your bleed, and depending on its severity, can take active measures to ensure your safety during the bleed. Afterward, your patient care coordinator can order more product to replenish your factor supply.

Wong-Baker FACES Pain Rating Scale

- > An easy-to-use pain scale allows the patient or caregiver to choose the severity of the bleed. This data point contributes to your infusion reporting, helping ensure proper treatment during and after the bleed.
- > The user-friendly interface is ideal for all ages and contributes the simple, yet secure design of myCubixx. The widely accepted pain scale is known to your physician and patient care coordinator, which makes for easy-to-understand reporting.

myCubixx is designed to make your life easier, both for scheduled infusions and for unexpected treatment. Be a part of the solution; call ASD Healthcare today for more information.
