December 2021

Dear XXXX,

For some people this holiday season, the greatest gift won't be wrapped in paper and topped with a bow. For them, the greatest gift may be a new rehabilitative treatment, a promising breakthrough in burn care, or access to a world-renowned trauma specialist.

You can help make these gifts a reality by supporting UPMC Mercy today, as teams of dedicated physicians, researchers, and staff work tirelessly to provide highly specialized health care services, as well as professional and community education programs.

Your tax-deductible contribution helps to bring the latest discoveries into practice, supporting critical care for serious, life-threatening conditions such as brain and spinal cord injuries, stroke, amputations, addiction, and severe burns. Support from friends like you helps to enhance access to these important services for those in our community.

Do you want to make an impact during this season of giving? Consider this – your generosity could give someone another chance when they thought they had exhausted all options. It could be the reason someone is able to celebrate the holidays with their loved ones.

Compassion, love, and God's healing presence.

The pioneering "Seven Sisters" of Mercy opened the first hospital in Pittsburgh and the world's first Mercy Hospital on January 1, 1847. Over the decades, the hospital expanded, replaced facilities, and developed specialized programs and advanced technology. The institution remains Pittsburgh's only Catholic hospital with specialized services including Level I trauma and burn services, detox and rehabilitation services. The Sisters of Mercy and the dedicated physicians and nurses of UPMC Mercy continue to serve the Pittsburgh region.

“Thank you for your expertise. My life is better because you cared. I am grateful.”

UPMC Mercy

The UPMC Mercy Burn Unit celebrated its 50th year of compassionate and skilled care in 2017. The UPMC Mercy Copeland Burn Fund honors Dr. Charles E. Copeland who established this fund with its first gift in 1987 to do research, educate the community, and provide state-of-the-art equipment.

The McGreevy Family sought to address substance abuse by setting up the McGreevy Psychiatric and Detox Fund in memory of Mark McGreevy as a way to help others struggling with mental illnesses and addictions.

UPMC Mercy General Fund

helps meet the important needs of the patients and community it serves. This unrestricted fund allows Mercy to respond to new concerns as they come up and problem solve through purchases of medical equipment, program improvements, and support for care innovations and advanced treatments.

The Care of the Poor Fund provides hope to those who find themselves in dire need of medical treatment but are without the means and resources to pay.
