

Hello, my name is Jose Albertorio, I am a junior at the University of North Texas, and I was born in the Pavia Hospital in San Juan, Puerto Rico. I am 21 years old who loves to read, learn new languages, watch sports, and hang out with friends. I moved here when I was 16 years old and graduated at 18 from Byron Nelson HS. I have an older brother who lives happily on the island, two dogs that live with my parents and me, and several goals in mind for the future. My college experience hasn't been the best due to the pandemic; I have struggled to make friends, mainly because this is my first semester on campus which is crazy, to say the least, but it is what it is. I'm honestly used to it already.

My plans for the future regarding my major honestly have to do with sports; I'm not interested in anything else related to journalism.

If I can't do that, I'll just do something else in life that is fun to me and provides my family with the necessary stability, which in turn gives us the liberties that we as humans look for in life. Thanks to the things I have done in the past, and the way my upbringing has been, I have plenty of choices to choose from. Additionally, I could continue in school, either go and get my masters or get another major in Puerto Rico, where the education is way cheaper than it is over here. The endgame will be the same. People can say that you are wasting your time by going to school again but I just don't see it that way. There's a lot to learn from in life and different experiences you can get wherever you go; it's just up to you to take advantage of those opportunities. If the opportunities are not there, you should probably create some different ones where you can excel.

Additionally, I don't feel like I can be one of those people who only works for money, my brain is not wired that way. I can get bored pretty quickly of things, which is why I need a profession that can keep me entertained.

Moving on, I love thriller movies and TV shows, my favorite sports player of all time, and my inspiration for a lot of things is Kobe Bryant, and the book that got me into reading again while I was in the 7th grade was "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" by Mark Twain. I also love psychology, and the way body language tells on you even when you least expect it. Last but not least, I played soccer in my high school team, where we did really well for some time. I was also on the chess team in high school. Anyone who knows me knows how passionate I am about winning and how frustrated I get whenever I lose, whether on the court, on the chessboard or in life.
