Module Five reflection

In this module I was glad to see what I could achieve on my own. This paper that I wrote may seem mediocre but to me it means a lot. I do realize that I've got a long way to go writing wise and that my paper was not perfect in the least, but nothing's perfect and it was a step in a positive direction for me. There wasn't a lot of second guessing with this paper like I've had with the others. The most challenging part about writing this paper was finding useful and credible sources. Once those were found writing this paper went a whole lot smoother. Doing my paper outline beforehand like I was supposed to would have helped me out a lot, but all in all I have more confidence in this page than any of the others that I've written.
