After collecting global success,

Alison Wonderland and Valentino Khan have enlisted the masked French producer Malaa for his remix of 'Anything.' The deep house take of the electronic pop anthem is out now via Diplo's record label, Mad Decent. After being teased on Twitter, Malaa's remix 'Anything' turned from a want to a need. The highly anticipated remix made the rounds, sending the dance music community into a frenzy.

'Anything'

Initially released in late-November, 'Anything' quickly circulated the web, garnering over 5 Million streams on Spotify. It appears that the two long-time heavyweights had a lot more up their sleeves for us. Including the release of their official music video.

Called upon for remixing duties, Pardon My French alumni, Malaa hands us his remix for 'Anything'. The deep house rework delivers a complete facelift to the original, giving fans a clubby adaptation that you won't get enough of. Malaa implants his signature sound to get your weekend started off the right way.

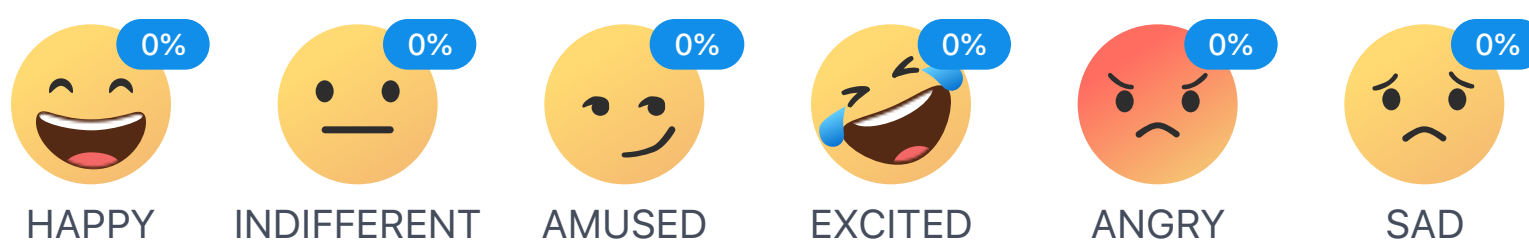

ALISON WONDERLAND

Alison Wonderland architects a world of her own design. For instance, she has a strong musical background and incorporates those aspects of talent into her production now. She displays an incredible combination of skills, especially her voice, which really makes her stand out. It's quite rare to find an electronic artist who also incorporates live instruments into their sets as well. Wonderland realizes this vision at the intersection of future-facing pop, explosive beat-craft, and eternal dance rhythms.

VALENTINO KHAN

The Los Angeles-based DJ and producer's music truly knows no bounds. From producing records for Grammy-winning artists to pumping out anthems on the biggest stages, such as EDC-Las Vegas and Ultra, he is continuously evolving his unique personal sound. A heavyweight in his own right, Valentino Khan continues to break barriers with original tracks, production credentials, live sets, and viral remixes.
