Showcasing the superstar shuffler, Elena Cruz. The music video follows her and her onscreen boyfriend through their rocky relationship and later onto a spontaneous car ride. Ultimately, it leads them to a hidden rave in the woods, where they discover EPB tossing down their sick beats. The couple is able to reignite their spark and love between one another by dancing and shuffling the night away.

From EPB:

"We were introduced to Tyler Graves through a mutual friend. While the world was basically shut down the feeling of drifting apart while being forced into isolation could be a topic that couple that could relate to. While the song itself leaves more to interpretation the video tells the story of a couple that during quarantine lost their spark and drastic actions had to be taken to bring them back together. As the chorus says she had the realization she needed him to take the initiative to lead her to light, in order to bring her back to life and back to him." – EPB
