Rising stars Sqwd & K4Kody just released their new single 'Eyes'.

'Eyes' is the perfect introduction to a gutsy production style and the inspiring clean cuts of a real scene-leader. This goes to show that these guys are ready to impress a growing and expectant audience. 'Eyes' spotlights Sqwd's signature cutting-edge and futuristic soundscapes, while Brighton-based rising star K4Kody phases catchy and powerful vocals.

Welcome to the world of Sqwd

Sqwd has been on a strong upward trajectory for the last couple of years. However, since unleashing 'The Off Chance You Love Me x CARLIE' via EARMILK earlier this year Sqwd's support base skyrocketed. The man behind the alias is Dylan Falgoust, and he started toying with music from a very early age. Spending years of guitar jams with Dad, masterclasses from his cousin on piano, and listening to old cassettes of 90s rave music. It is these early musical memories culminating decades' worth of influences that make Sqwd stand out from the rest in the world of electronic music and future bass styled producers.

Sqwd also finds time to consistently create 3D digital artworks for himself and others in the 'Vapor Twitch' scene. His visual talents can be seen in both the promotional videos and artwork for this single and living with synaesthesia, this ability to combine art with music comes naturally.

Introducing K4Kody

'Eyes' also acts as K4Kody's first appearance under this anonymous alias. This team-up with Sqwd has provided a masterpiece that is sure to influence the next wave of modern pop and electronic music.

What is Vapor Twitch?

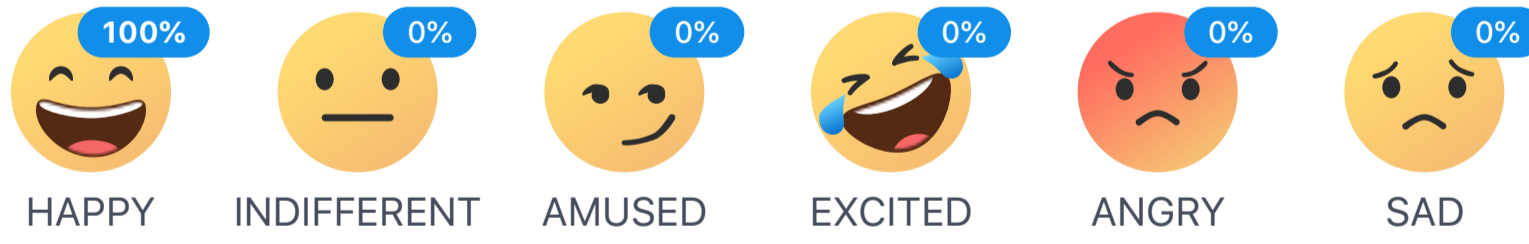

Helping categorize the spillover of musical innovation from today's freshest future bass producers. Vapor Twitch is a new subgenre featuring elements of glitch, future Bass & trap. Be sure to subscribe to their Youtube channel to discover new artists!
