Mix 247 EDM is back with our Weekly Top 10 Mix Picks that we are feeling each week. Follow our August playlist to check out what we have on our rotation! Some of our favorites this week? Dom Dolla & Sonny Fedora - 'Moving Blind', Excision X Wooli - Lockdown (MadReckless Remix) & Kompany - 'Feel It All'. From the latest releases and throwbacks, tune in here to see what we are listening to this week.

1) Excision X Wooli - Lockdown (MadReckless Remix)

It's been almost a year since Excision and Wooli released their collaborative Evolution EP. Now, they just announced that they are dropping the Evolution EP: The Remixes on Aug 18th. The EP also features two free bonus reworks in addition to the currently unannounced official remixes. The one highlighted above is MadReckless's remix of Lockdown, and it's absolutely insane. If you attended the Evolution tour you were lucky enough to have the full experience of that first drop at 1:35.

2) Hairitage - 'Hustle'

Hairitage's new EP Freeway is blowing up right now. The Oregon-based DJ and producer have dropped the 5-track EP on Kannibalen Records, and let's just say that 'Hustle' could be one of the filthiest tracks this year.

3) Kompany - 'Feel It All'

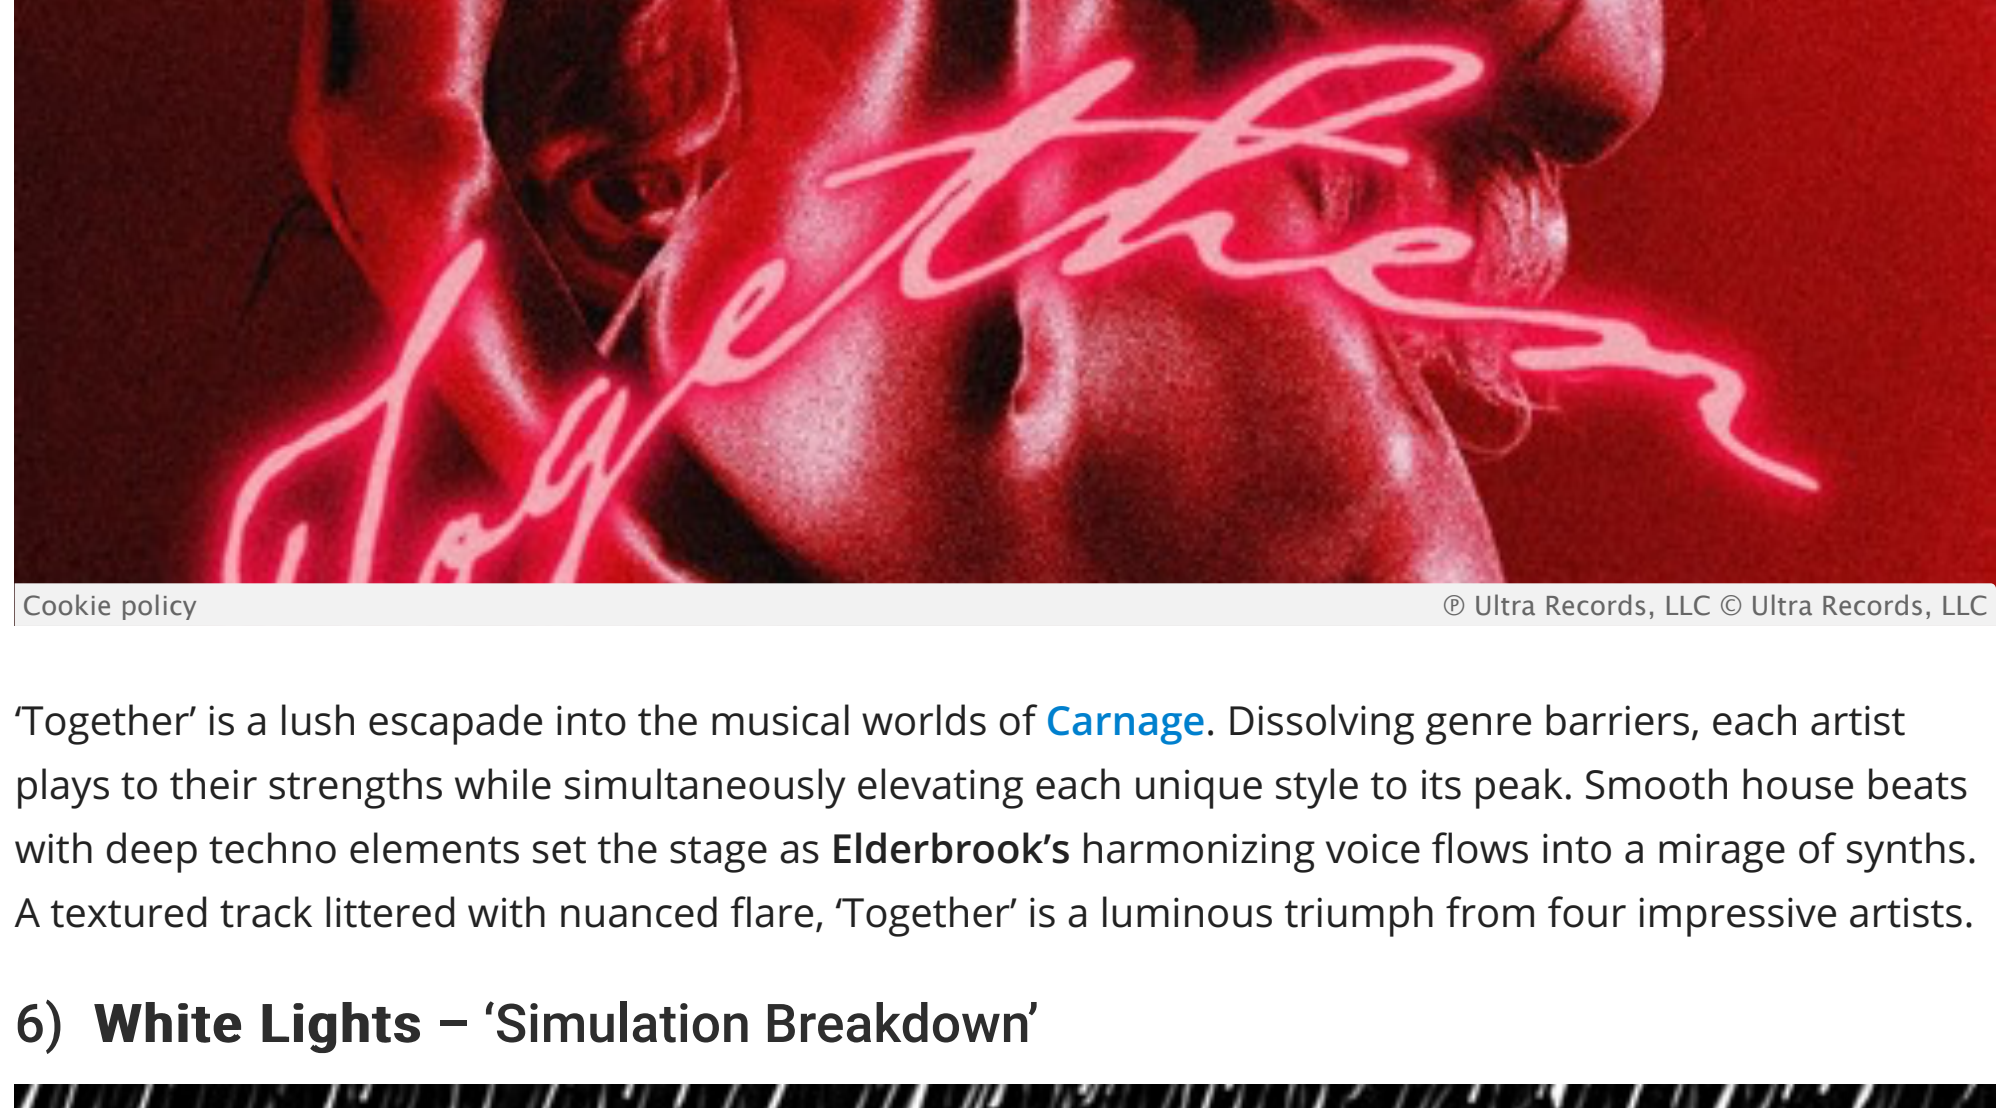

Kompany is a highly respected producer in the dubstep/riddim community. His skull-cracking filthy drops are one of a kind. However his latest release 'Feel It All' takes a different approach highlighting its melodic vocals all throughout the song and leads us into a drop that will slap you in the face. This is a Kompany cry-bang masterpiece.

4) DVBBBS & Sondr - 'Swim' feat. Keelan Donovan

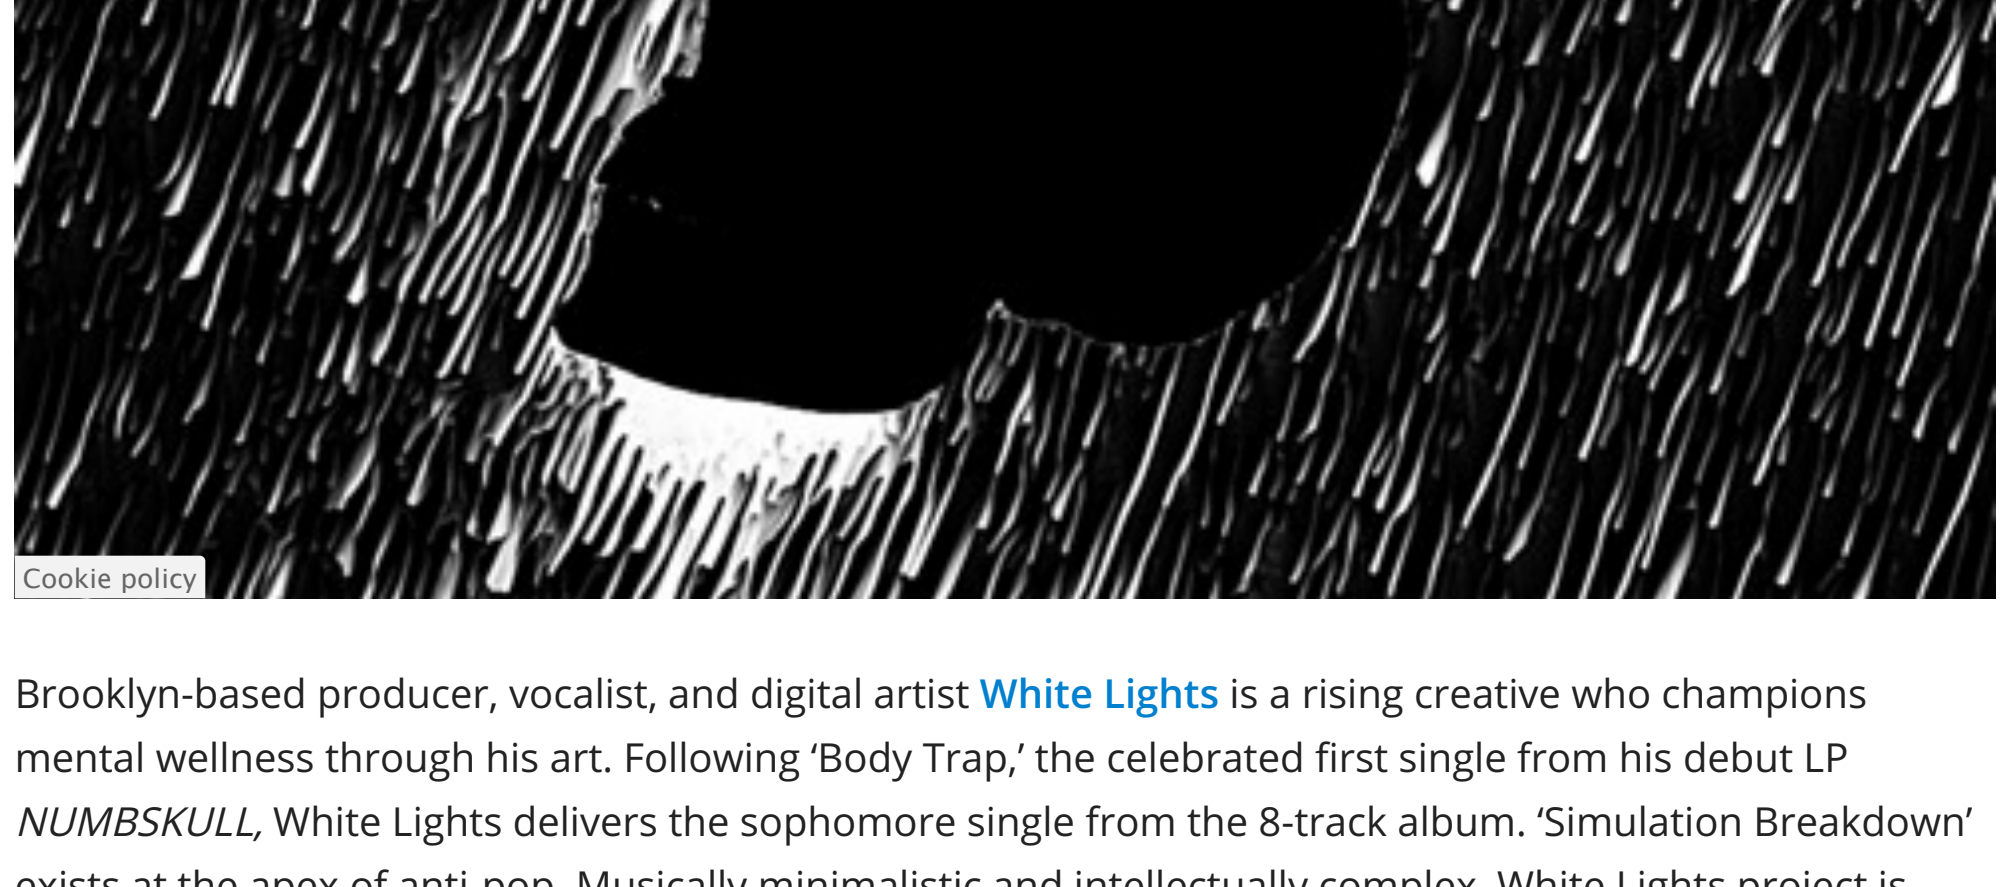

Entering the scene in 2013 with the #1 club track of the year, the Canadian brotherly DJ/producer duo (DVBBBS) have catapulted themselves into the most happening genre of the music industry at this time. DVBBBS coming together with another electronic duo (Sondr) for 'Swim' created the perfect house club track. There's no doubt that places will be bumping this after quarantine.

5) Carnage & The Martinez Brothers - 'Together' (feat. Elderbrook & Mike Dean)

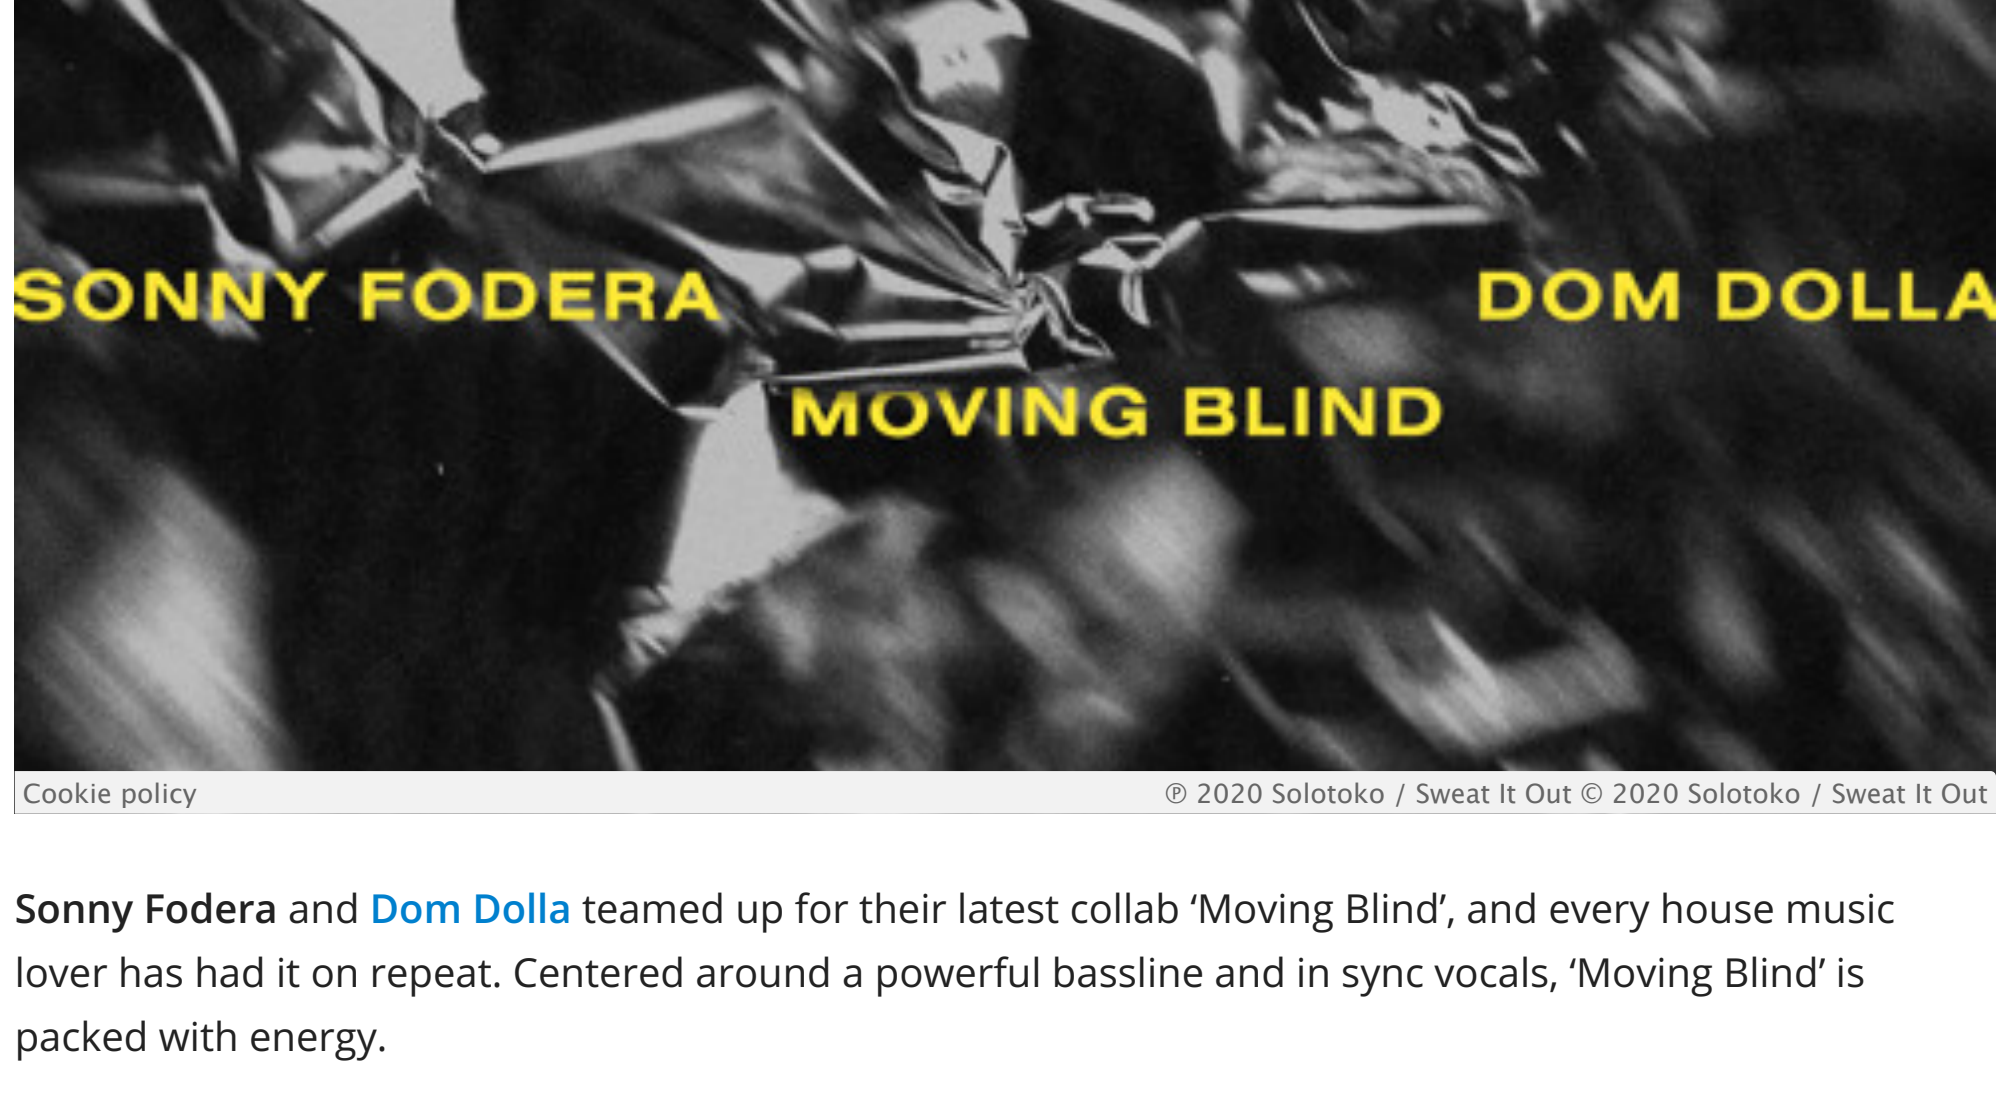

'Together' is a lush escapade into the musical worlds of Carnage. Dissolving genre barriers, each artist plays to their strengths while simultaneously elevating each unique style to its peak. Smooth house beats with deep techno elements set the stage as Elderbrook's harmonizing voice flows into a mirage of synths. A textured track littered with nuanced flare, 'Together' is a luminous triumph from four impressive artists.

6) White Lights - 'Simulation Breakdown'

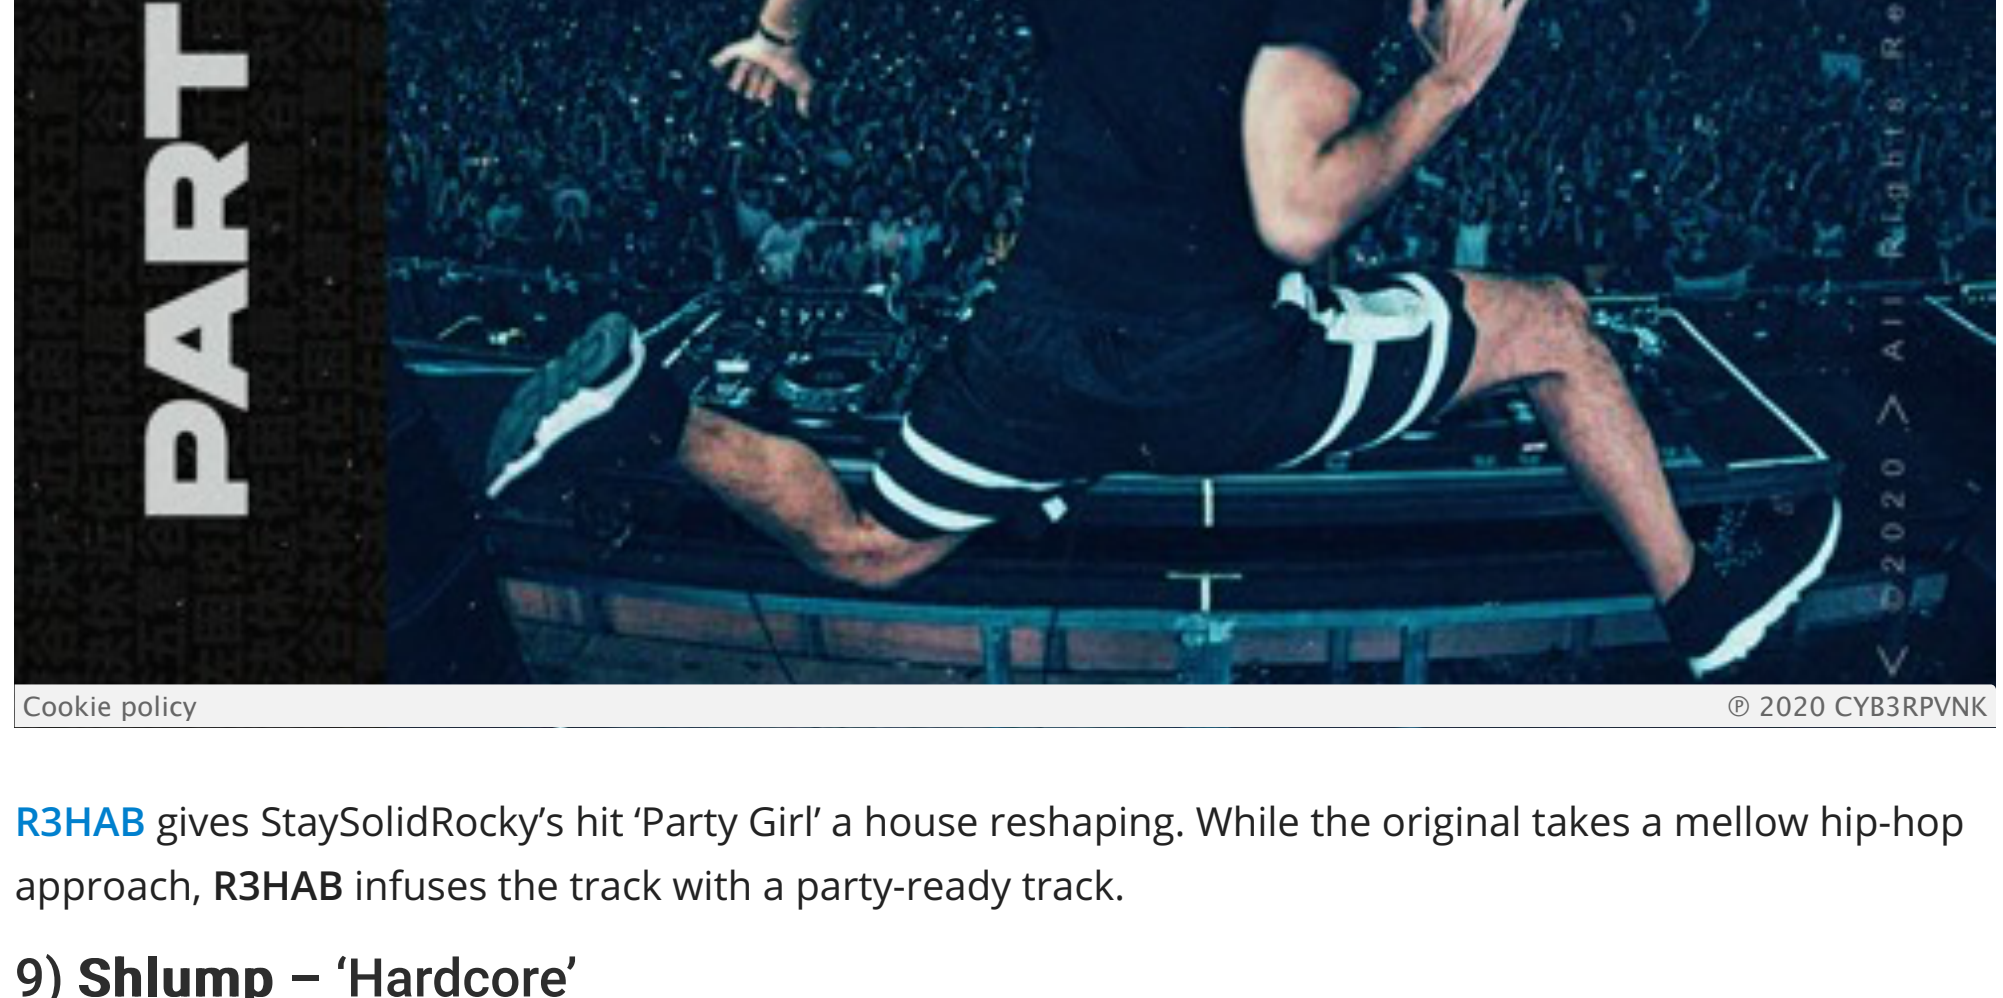

Brooklyn-based producer, vocalist, and digital artist White Lights is a rising creative who champions mental wellness through his art. Following 'Body Trap,' the celebrated first single from his debut LP NUMBSKULL, White Lights delivers the sophomore single from the 8-track album. 'Simulation Breakdown' exists at the apex of anti-pop. Musically minimalist and intellectually complex, White Lights project is more than music. It is an open-hearted manifesto detailing the trials and tribulations of the human experience.

7) Dom Dolla & Sonny Fedora - 'Moving Blind'

Sonny Fedora and Dom Dolla teamed up for their latest collab 'Moving Blind', and every house music lover has had it on repeat. Centered around a powerful bassline and in sync vocals, 'Moving Blind' is packed with energy.

8) R3HAB - 'Party Girl'

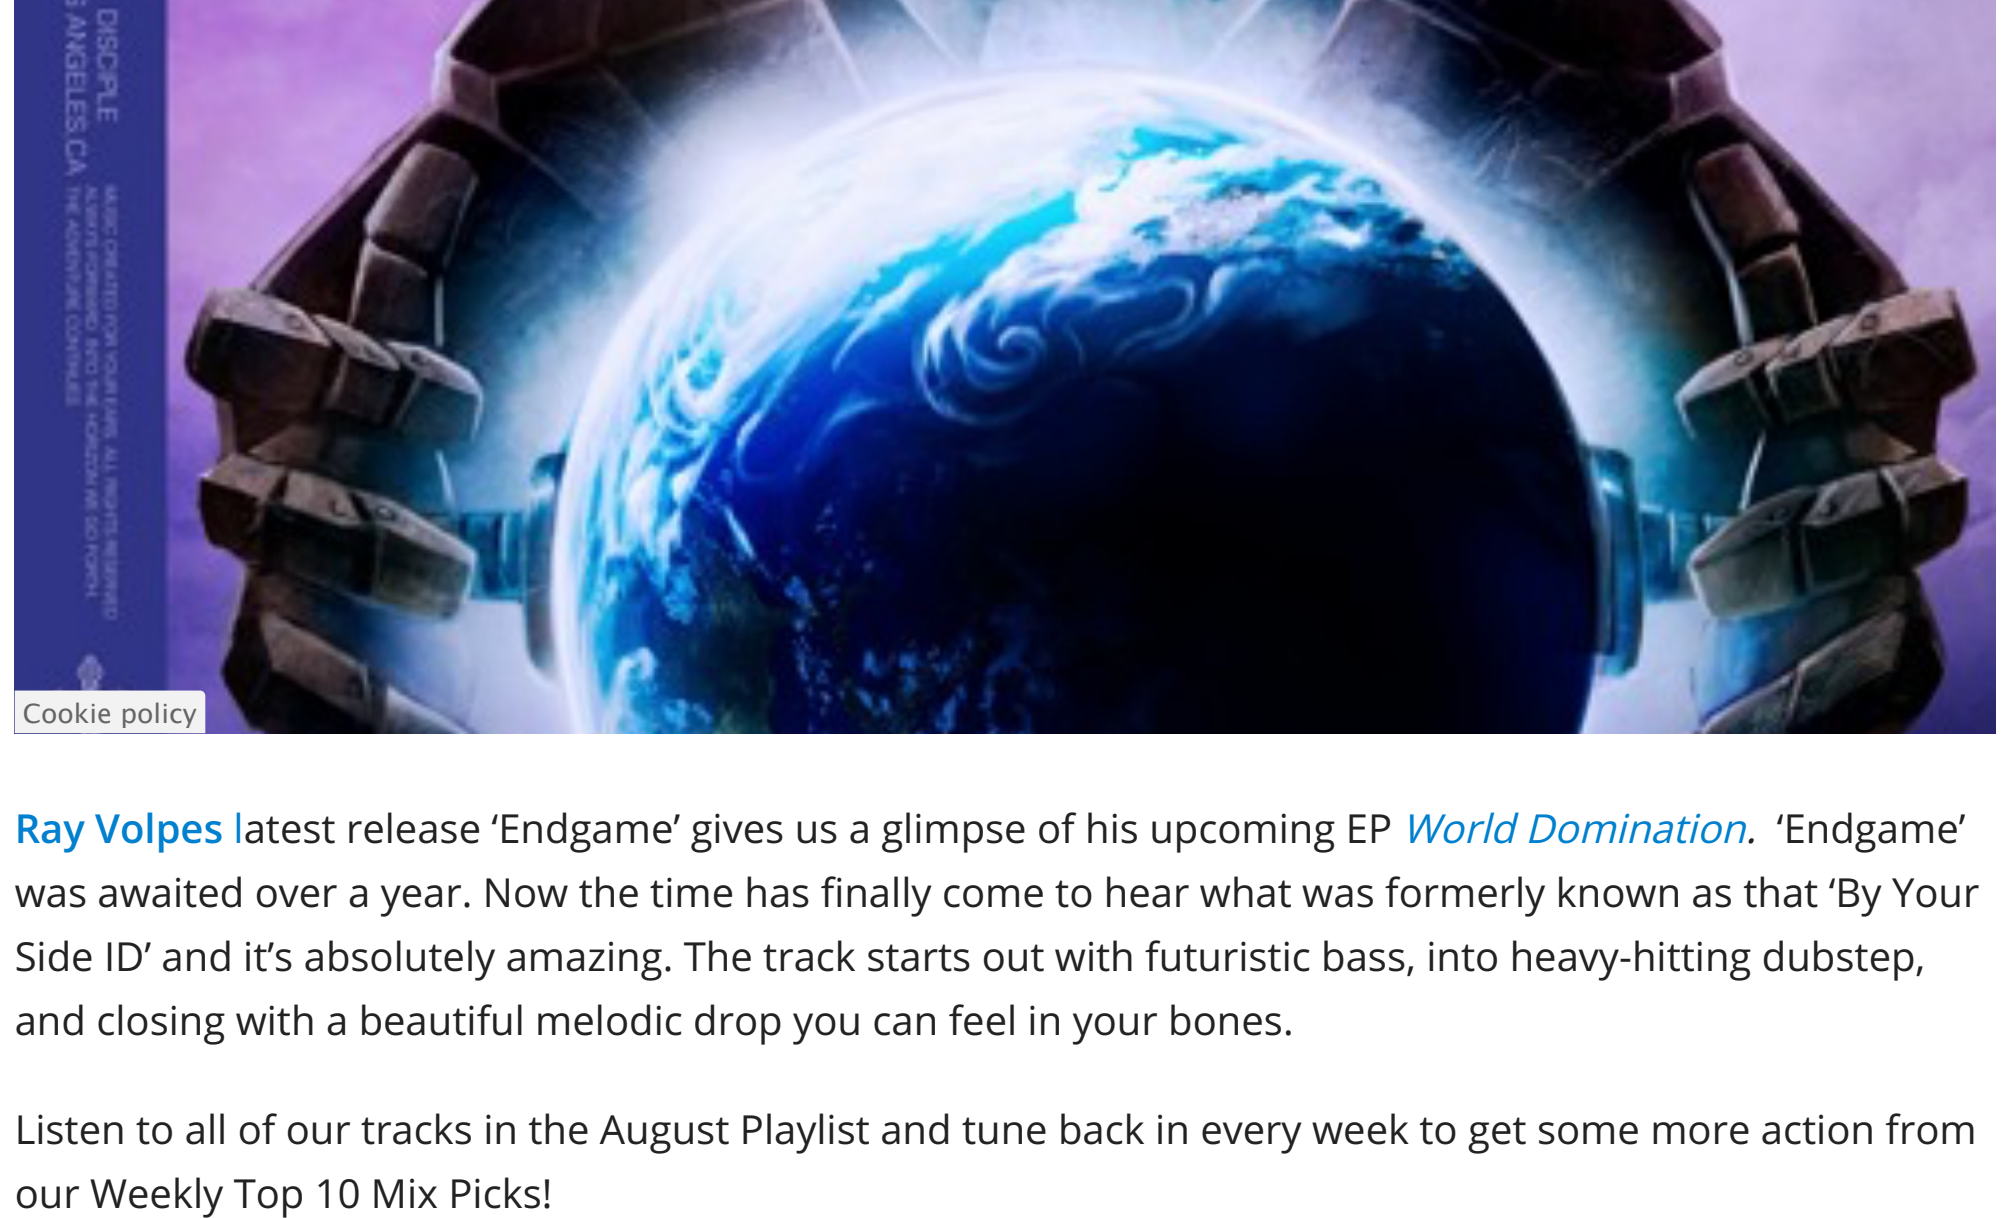

R3HAB gives StaySolidRocky's hit 'Party Girl' a house reshaping. While the original takes a mellow hip-hop approach, R3HAB infuses the track with a party-ready track.

9) Shlump - 'Hardcore'

Shlump, a Wakaan Legend has done it again in his latest release 'Hardcore' out on Circus Records. This track definitely has that original Shlump alien technology noise, and it will never get old.

10) RAY VOLPE - 'Endgame'

Ray Volpe's latest release 'Endgame' gives us a glimpse of his upcoming EP World Domination. 'Endgame' was awarded over a year. Now the time has finally come to hear what was formerly known as that 'By Your Side ID' and it's absolutely amazing. The track starts out with futuristic bass, into heavy-hitting dubstep, and closing with a beautiful melodic drop you can feel in your bones.
