Jeff Abel aka our man Excision is asking his fans for feedback again.

In October, Jeff released a survey to his fan base, asking them who they would like to see at Lost Lands 2020. However, most recently he did something a little different. This year, Excision wants some fresh meat up in Legend Valley- and don't lie, I know you all do too. This means you will see producers that have never been seen on a Lost Lands lineup ever before. So please get your visas. @BadKlaat I'm talking to you.

Excision and his team put forth all their time, energy, love and devotion into their work. Jeff for sure is such a remarkable human and it goes to show how much he cares about his fans. One of the most amazing things about him is how active and in touch he is within the EDM community. A couple days ago, was the first time the "Fresh Meat" survey was presented. He supports new producers in their come up which is amazing. Nothing goes unnoticed by this man- He sees the potential in everyone. Dion Timmer was only a young teenager when Excision took him under his wing. Dion Timmer is now only 20 is making a killing in the bass scene. You cannot even count the amount of collaborations Excision and he has created. ("Time Stood Still" is personally my favorite.)

Lost Lands is by far Excision's biggest project and it goes to show how much he cares about it. The festival first started in 2017 and has been coming back bigger and better every year. If you are hungry for that jaw-dropping, filthy bass, I promise that legend valley will be your brutal heaven on earth. Like I mentioned earlier, we will be seeing some freshies on the line-up. The poll included a wild list of producers such as Bandlez, Ivory, OG Nixon, Brondo, MVRDA, Ray Volpe, Chibs, and so many more who definitely belong at Lost Lands. There was also an option to add any other sets you would like to see. How about a Disciple Takeover, please! I would be all over that like sauce on ribs.

There are so many sets that all headbangers would all love to experience at Lost Lands and Excision is giving new producers a chance to play at probably, their dream festival. There's so much appreciation for this man. He's got a big heart and it shows. Now we will just have to wait to see which "Fresh Meats" Lost lands will be serving us this year. Make sure to follow Excision and Lost Lands Twitter for updates!
