WORK EXPERIENCE

Managing Editor at Hromadske International (Kyiv, Ukraine)

September 2017 - Present

I am currently the managing editor at the English-language department of an independent Ukrainian TV channel, Hromadske. I started off here as a correspondent and, after six months, got promoted to the role of the managing editor. I write, edit, and organise our weekly TV show.

BBC Media Action, English-Ukrainian-English freelance interpreting

February 2019

I interpreted for BBC Media Action consultant's (who is a former BBC executive) three-day visit to Kyiv.

Staff Writer at Kyiv Post (Kyiv, Ukraine)

September 2016 - June 2017

For nine months I worked as a staff writer at Ukrainian English-language publication Kyiv Post, where I wrote over a hundred articles covering politics, lifestyle, and business. Many of my stories gained far above the average audience with thousands of clicks, likes, and shares.

English-Ukrainian-English interpreter at Oliver Grange Ltd. (United Kingdom)

September - October 2014

Completed two interpreting jobs whilst living in England.

EDUCATION

Condé Nast College of Fashion & Design (London, UK)

2016 Vogue Intensive Summer Course

During summer 2016 I completed a 4-week course developed by a publishing giant Condé Nast. This course gave me an invaluable insight into what working for a large magazine such as Vogue is like. I learnt about areas like marketing, journalism, promotion, and styling. My article about the influence of punk music on fashion has been chosen for publishing on the Condé Nast College Student blog.

University of Leeds (Leeds, UK)

2011-2014 BA Mathematics and Russian Civilisation

Developed my written communication skills and dedication through writing numerous essays, including an 8,000-word dissertation.

Bloxham school (Oxfordshire, UK)

2009-2011 A-levels in English literature, Russian, Mathematics, and Art

The Heritage Private School (Limassol, Cyprus)

2006-2009 GCSEs including Russian, English language, English literature, Mathematics and Art

Lyceum "Podil" (Kyiv, Ukraine), 1999-2006

VOLUNTARY EXPERIENCE

Co-founder and Vice President of Eastern European Society, University of Leeds, 2012-2014

Together with a few other students founded a new society, which very quickly became one of the largest at the university. The Vice President role involved being a disruptive thinker - we constantly made changes to our approach in what we did to maintain people's interest. This role improved my leadership skills, as well as time and finance management; increased my influence and negotiation abilities.
