THE CONSERVATION PROJECT ONE

An organic pioneer, Green People supports the Marine Conservation Society's beach clean-ups. Try the Scent Free Mineral Sun Cream SPF30, £31.50.

THE SOCIALLY CONSCIOUS ONE

Tropic Skincare donates 10% of its profits to global charities and funds education in several remote regions. We love its glow-giving Radiance Cleanser, £36.

THE CARBON-NEGATIVE ONE

Beauty Kitchen uses fully reusable or recyclable FSC-certified packaging. Its Pure Source Collagen Spi4™ Complex Serum, from £30, is the one of the world's first carbon-negative skincare products.

THE CERTIFIED ORGANIC ONE

Charlotte Vøhtz of Cha Vøhtz, a Green People brand, has long worked with the Soil Association to define regulations for organic cosmetics. Try the Age Defy+ Hydrate & Renew Serum, £45.

THE RENEWABLE ENERGY ONE

Neal's Yard powers its stores with renewable energy and was the UK's first high-street retailer to be certified as Carbon Neutral. Get a skin boost with its new Frankincense Intense Lift Cream, £80.

THE ANIMAL-FRIENDLY ONE

Biossance is known for its sugar cane-derived squalane, a sustainable, cruelty-free alternative to an oil usually harvested from shark livers. Find it in the plumping Firm and Lift Dual Serum, £54.

THE ZERO-WASTE ONE

UpCircle repurposes byproducts from the food and drink industry that would otherwise go to waste. Its Peptide Serum, £24.99, uses upcycled custard apple.

Face of the future

Nourish your skin and soothe your conscience with our pick of eco-friendly formulations that don't cost the earth

The one-stop shoe

At GH, we see Sézane as a French Marks & Spencer – both brands take a thoughtful approach to style and quality, blending function with elegance, and share a talent for turning everyday essentials into objects of quiet delight. Take Sézane's Mary Janes, £160, 2-9: its signature style is reimagined for spring in radiant buttercup yellow. With a slingback strap that winks at its retro heritage, leather lining for lasting comfort and a rubber sole that keeps you grounded, this is a shoe that's as poetic as it is practical – a little French sunshine for your wardrobe.
