

In the Sun

This project is located in Nantou County, Taiwan. Considering the owners' taste and preference, simple and neat style are added to interior design, besides, black and grey colors are used as main color tone. In order to amplify the advantage of great weather condition, the designer puts emphasis on natural lighting for interior design.

With the expansive surroundings, the house space is enlarged, which gives more flexibility for interior design. Marble look tiles are utilized to add elegance and luxury to interior space, moreover, the black and grey colors create calm and neat ambience. There are many floor-to-ceiling windows in house, which visually enlarges space, and increases natural light.

The indoor area is approximately 4,270 square feet. The ground floor contains kitchen, master bedroom, sport space, living room, rest room, dining room and two bathrooms. In the kitchen, stand-alone equipment improve functionality, and there is a bar area arranged for users to enjoy light meals, which provides users with relaxed and comfortable dining experiences.

The second floor contains three kids' rooms, two bathrooms, clothes drying room, and family room. The kids' rooms are designed based on their personal preferences, which perfectly shows their personality and enriches home design as well. By adding the kids' preferences to the kids' rooms, the designer infuses the rooms with unique touches and consistency.

Since the house is located on an empty land, west-facing windows of the house get direct sunlight blazing through them. With correct selection of building materials and good layout design, the disadvantage is turned into advantage. Floor-to-ceiling windows are used to replace traditional windows, which amplifies the advantage of great weather condition.

