

Single?

- ✓ Locally Owned and Operated
- ✓ Confidential and Professional
- ✓ Membership Guarantee
- ✓ Background Checks for Your Security

Don't find computers romantic? Concerned about your privacy? Overwhelmed by the thought of sorting through millions of on-line profiles where prospects consistently misrepresent themselves?

There is an easier way. The Right One is a modern-day matchmaker. Our clients work personally with an accessible relationship expert here in Atlanta. Providing compatible introductions is our top priority.

THE Right ONE[®]
The Relationship Experts

1-800-818-DATE

www.therightone.com

DON'T MISS OUR SUMMER OPEN HOUSE, JUNE 10-12

the Scarlet Tassel

UNCOMMON GIFTS AND HOME ACCENTS

404 843 0387

6235-A Roswell Road - Sandy Springs Plaza
Monday-Saturday 10-6, Sunday 12-5

www.thescarlettassel.com

COMMENTS

our children at the neighborhood pool, and then we drifted apart as our children went off to different high schools and we both moved away from the old 'hood. What a sad delight to open your magazine and see wedding photos of former friends who incidentally were married the same year as my husband, Dean, and I.

Thank you for including this tender story of love that continues on beyond the grave. Unfortunately there are too many of us who can relate to this heartbreak.

WINNIE MAE HARGIS
Dalton

I WAS PLEASED, IN GENERAL, WITH the variety of couples and relationships you chose to highlight in your February special "Romance" issue. It was especially refreshing to see a story about a gay couple in a long-term relationship ("Bill and Doug Got Married" by Justin Heckert).

I was disappointed, however, with the bleak view of black romance. Aside from the snippet on the state of Whitney Houston and Bobby Brown's marriage, the only other story featuring blacks was Chandra Thomas' report about the over-hyped "phenomenon" of black men on the down low.

Although Atlanta Magazine can't be all things to all people, given the demographics of the city and your readership, one would expect a more balanced view of black relationships.

AARON THOMAS-ELLISTON
Atlanta ✪

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Your criticism as well as your praise makes us a better magazine.

Tell us what you think.

We'll print your letters in a future issue.

We reserve the right to edit for space and clarity.

Write to:

Comments, Atlanta Magazine,
260 Peachtree St., Suite 300
Atlanta, GA 30303

atlantamagletters@atlantamag.emms.com