

Alessia & The Crazycats

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Alessia and her band The Crazycats are a London-based sugary-sweet pop outfit, dripping with funk nostalgia. Comprised of band-members from all across Europe, Alessia and The Crazycats draw from a range of inspirations to help create their sound. Alessia herself heralds from Switzerland and much like her British drummer, has a keen interest in funk and disco citing influences such as James Brown, Chic, and Kylie Minogue. With a half Argentinian, half Italian guitarist who grew up in Spain and is inspired by Red Hot Chili Peppers and Foals, and a heavy metal loving Swedish bassist, each member adds their own unique flair to the band's sound, producing something inimitable.

Bringing a sparkle to everything she does, Alessia has a bright energy that lights up any room she enters or stage she takes to and has been described by industry professionals as a rare gem. Alessia's lyrics focus consistently on the positive aspects of life, even its more challenging times, and when paired with the funky, 80s synth-laden instrumentals, Alessia and The Crazycats generate a cathartic atmosphere of liberation and joy.

Although she now has a distinctive sound reminiscent of Sigrid, Alessia has gone through years of classical music training. First taking up classical piano at age 4, composing at age 7, and writing her first English lyrics in year 3, Alessia went on to study at the prestigious Swiss Jazz School before undertaking a Bachelor's degree at BIMM London where she met her band and embarked on a European tour.
