

Stephen Curry Becoming The Highest-Paid NBA Player in 2021-2022 Season

By Nabila Shakina

Wardell Stephen Curry II, known as Stephen Curry or Steph Curry, is an American professional basketball player who led the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association (NBA) to a championship and has broken another three-point record at all-time leading favorite Warriors team. Four championship ring is something that would make all of Curry's sacrifices and challenges worth it. He's always been predicting what could've been wrong for the Warriors but his consistency won't let that primary issue happen.

"It's just consistency and focus and IQ, and just understanding how certain teams are trying to execute against us, and what we can do – mostly defensively what we can do to counter that.", said Curry. Now that the Warriors star once again finds himself on the top of the list of NBA's highest-paid players makes total sense. "We have a lot of different rotations and lineups and just trying to make adjustments on the fly, but we have to like the coach said, be more connected. Just be more in sync as a five-man unit whoever is out there. We realize how hard it is to win in this league, we say it a lot cause we have guys who have been around and know what it takes. Nights like tonight where you just don't play a good brand of basketball defensively, to give yourself a chance to win on a road against a team that you allow to have life, you aren't gonna win a lot of games that way", Curry added.

All his consistency and achievements get him $45,780,966 which set him to make nearly $46 million in the final year of his current deal, though all the money train will keep on rolling. He signed an extension this past summer that will be kicked in the earlier 2022-2023 and if so, that means Curry is going to make $215 million over four years and also remains the league's top earner.