

Technical snag hits fee payment by CET students

BENGALURU: Candidates, who have been allotted seats in the second round of CET counselling, faced issues due to a technical glitch on Tuesday when they tried to pay the fee at bank branches.

Candidates who were allotted seats in engineering, architecture, ayurveda and other professional courses have to pay a fee of Rs 50,500 to confirm their seat. They have to download the challan from the website of the Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA) and approach any branch of State Bank of India.

“The challan is not appearing in the portal of the bank. I tried to pay the fee at the Nagarabhavi branch, Chamara-jpet branch and the Malagala branch, but all of them had the same issue. The bank staff said the software was down but I don't know if it was a problem at their end or the KEA end,” said Badrinath, who tried to pay the fee for his daughter. He is concerned because unless he makes the payment, he cannot download his daughter's admission order which he has to show at the college. The last date to report to the colleges is July 21.

Other candidates also faced similar issues. An official of the KEA said that they were not aware of the problem.

“Sometimes, it takes a few hours for the challan to reflect in the bank system. We will look into this matter,” the official said.

Government to check if foreign board curriculum on par with state syllabus

Study will look into IGCSE, IB curriculum

Meghana Choukkar

BENGALURU: The state government has taken up the exercise of studying the syllabi adopted by schools affiliated to international boards to check if they are of the same standards followed by the state board.

The study will look into the curriculum of International General Certificate of Secondary Education (IGCSE), offered by the Cambridge International Examinations (CIE) in the UK, and the International Baccalaureate (IB) programmes offered by IB organisation, headquartered in Switzerland.

The task
The department of primary and secondary education has assigned the task to the Department of Pre-University Education (DPUE), Department of State Educational Research and Training (DSERT) and Karnataka Secondary Education Examination Board (KSEEB).

“For the purpose of higher education, we have to know if a student passing out of these programmes will have a qualification equivalent to that of a student from our board. Can a student from IGCSE take admission in PU? Is an A-level certificate equivalent to class X or XII? At present, there is confusion about this and we need to bring some clarity. Hence, we have taken up this exercise,” said Ajay Seth, principal secretary of the department.

The study will look at the subjects in the curriculum, number of years of schooling, number of teaching hours and evaluation methods, among other aspects.

Education Act
Seth also said the government would ensure that international schools, affiliated to foreign boards, will also have to register themselves with the department, according to the Karnataka Education Act. At present, these schools are unregulated.

“We have received several complaints from parents about international schools. Recently, there was an issue with a school in Kalaburagi which claimed to be giving certificates from a board in the USA. The Act applies to these schools for all purposes except academics and they need to be registered,” Seth said.

Result dates differ
This year, more than 60 students from international schools have applied for admissions in pre-university colleges in the state. However, as their results are declared only in August, IGCSE students are not eligible for admission. Colleges seek an eligibility certificate for the student from the PU board. But the board cannot issue the certificate without the student's original marks card.

“In IGCSE, they give students a 'Predicted Score' similar to the score of students in preparatory examinations in our board. But there is no provision to give admissions based on this. If we do and the student fails to clear his exams, what would we do in such a situation?” one official said.

Director of the board, C Shikha, said they would seek clarity on this from the government.
